CATHOLICS CONDEMN DIVORCE

ITALIANS LAND AT SALONICA

Paris, Aug. 21.—Press despatches from Salonica report that Italian troops are landing at the Greek port to assist the allies in their struggle with the Bulgarians. They are receiving an enthusiastic greeting. Most of the Italians are said to be veterans.

By International News Service.

Salonica, Aug. 21.—Continuing their offensive against the Bulgarian centre in the Doiran region the British troops are steadily advancing. An official communique issued at general headquarters here today announces that during the night the Britons had advanced 2,000 yards on a front of 5,000 yards.

The French troops are also winning success, having captured after fierce resistance, Feracheval work, to the south of Dorzell.

The communique indicates that the Bulgarian army has taken the offensive on its entire front, stating that the Bulgars have passed the Greek frontier at several points. The communique follows:

ACTIVITY ON THE STRUMA.

The English forces on the Doiran front advanced last night 2,000 yards on a front of 5,000 yards and took positions without meeting resistance.

"Our troops (French) took the Feracheval work, south of Dolzelli, after some resistance by the Bulgars.

"On the Struma front the enemy is showing signs of activity in the direction of Demoirhissar. He is reported as passing the frontier at different points and penetrating Greek territory in the vicinity of Sariehaban, east of Kavala."

A later report from the French

EPIDEMIC IN ONSET KILLS 3

Three deaths in Onset, eleven cases throughout the State reported by the State Board of Health for the forty-eight hour period ending at noon today, and thirty-three deaths in New York during the last twenty-four hours, an increase of thirteen from the day before, were the striking developments in the infantile paralysis situation today.

The situation at Onset is deemed so grave by the Board of Health of Wareham, in which town the village is situated, as to cause them to declare the Nemasket Park section of Point Independence in quarantine.

The latest death to be reported from Onset is that of Betina Atherton, three-year-old daughter of Lo Baron Atherton of Brockton, a prominent merchant of that city, who is the head of a chain of furniture stores.

BROCKTON FAMILY.

The Atherton family has a Summer home at Point Independence, where many prominent residents of Brockton live at this season of the year.

The other deaths in Onset are Everett N. Bray, five years old, of Brookline, and a boy by the name of Cotton, the son of L. N. Cotton of Newton.

A great number of residents of Brockton spend their Summers in Onset, 2,500 residents of that city being there at this time.

Among some of the well-known people who are cottage owners in the danger zone at Onset are: Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Richmond of Brookline (Mrs. Richmond is the daughter of ex-Governor W. L. Douglas); Herbert L. Pinkham, treasurer of the W. L. Douglas Shoe Company, and family; Mr. and Mrs. Loring Q. White, of the L. Q. White Shoe Company of

German Terms Are Intolerable, Says Asquith

London, Aug. 21.

By International News Service.

"GERMANY, up to date, has shown no disposition to agree to peace except on terms which are intolerable and humiliating to some of our allies," said Premier Asquith in the House of Commons today. "The suggestion that the Entente Powers were influenced by pressure from Great Britain is untrue. No terms whatever have been offered."

CONNECTICUT MAN BEHEADED; INDIAN HELD

Providence, R. I., Aug. 21.—Clarence Simons, a half-breed Indian, was arrested as he stepped from a train at Union Station today on a charge of murder in beheading his neighbor, Michael Gravelin, at Voluntown, Ct., with an axe while Gravelin was in bed. Jealousy over Gravelin's attentions to Simons' young housekeeper, Miss Sadie Wheeler, formerly of Westerly, R. I., is said to have cause the murder.

Simons is a woodchopper and tremendously powerful, but he made no resistance when Inspectors William E. McGann and John J. O'Malley seized him when he stepped from the train.

Chief Inspector William F. O'Neil said, after questioning the half-breed at headquarters, that Simons admitted jealousy of Gravelin and also admitted having hit Gravelin. But he did not admit the actual killing.

Simons said, according to O'Neil: "I found my housekeeper going to Gravelin's house next door to mine at Voluntown on Saturday afternoon. I had an argument with Gravelin. Later I found her in his house yesterday morning. I hit Gravelin. I do not remember what happened after that."

Voluntown is a hamlet in a wooded Connecticut district, six miles west of the State line. The body of Gravelin, with the head severed as though by one blow with an axe, was found in bed yesterday morning.

Miss Wheeler had been Simons' housekeeper for two years. She is twenty-eight years old. Simons had disappeared when the body was found.

Five Killed by Explosion.

Jackson, Tenn., Aug. 21.—At least five persons were killed and many were injured by the explosion of a boiler in the plant of the Harlan Morris Manufacturing Company today.

PURSUER OF TOTH TAKEN

When Salvatore Bova, Italian fisherman, heard yesterday that a big shark had stopped the swimming match between Henry Sullivan and Charlie Toth by driving Toth from the water, he went shark hunting at once.

At 11 o'clock last night he harpooned a shark off Boston lightship and fought him to a finish in a battle that lasted two and a half hours.

The shark, which is more than thirteen feet long and weighed 650 pounds before its viscera was removed, is the largest ever brought to Boston. Bova believe that it is the same shark that drove the swimmer from the water yesterday. Others on the water front, after hearing the story, express the same belief. They say that sharks of that size are not so plentiful in these waters that there would be likely to be two of them in a given locality at one time.

OFF FOR BATTLE.

Bova and Carmelo Scavuzzo were fishing off Plymouth when they heard from another boatman that a big shark had driven a swimmer from the water between Plymouth and Provincetown. Having a harpoon in the boat, Bova and his companion started out to attack the big fish. Bova finally located it in about the locality that Toth was taken from the water.

The fish was very active and the boatman stalked it for hours without success. If the boat had been a sailing vessel Bova believes he could have stolen up on the shark and got in some more effective work much earlier, but his motor frightened it off.

He lost the fish several times, but always caught sight of its back fin with a half hour or so, when the shark came to the surface. Finally the "Thief of the sea" became accustomed to the presence of the boat and the fishermen were able to approach closer and closer before sounding.

BRING IN THE PRIZE.

The shark struggled for two and a half hours before they could get its head out of water and drown it. When that was accomplished they hitched a tackle and fall on it and drew it into the boat.

It was broad daylight when Bova and Scavuzzo arrived at the wharf of Russo & LaSeolla, No. 156 Atlantic avenue, with their prize. The fish would sell ordinarily for about 3½ cents a pound, but because of its value for exhibition purposes a larger sum was paid for it.

10,000 DUE AT LONG BRANCH MEETING

New York, Aug. 21.—Governor Fielder of New Jersey, who has charge of the arrangements for the Democratic notification meeting at Long Branch on September 2, was a visitor at Democratic national headquarters today to discuss the final plans. More than 5,000 invitations have been sent out, but arrangements are being made to take care of 10,000 persons.

DENOUNCE MEXICAN EVILS

By International News Service.

New York, Aug. 21.—Denunciation of lax divorce laws and the growth of radicalism in America and of demoralizing conditions in Mexico featured the report of the national committee on public morals, presented today at the fifteenth annual convention of the American Federation of Catholic Societies.

The report was presented by Edward Feeney of Brooklyn, chairman of the committee. After calling attention to the fact that 1,000,000 divorces have been granted during the last ten years by Americans courts, and the fact that federal efforts to secure a uniform divorce law have failed, the report says:

"We can only repeat our denunciation of pagan State laws that make easy the separation of what God has joined together and renew our demand for a national law so stringent that no longer shall the finger of scorn be pointed at the United States as second only to Japan in the number of divorces granted to people of doubtful morality."

DENOUNCE RADICALISM.

Dealing with radical sociology, the report says:

"The radical sociologist is poisoning the wells of public morality by the advocacy of birth control, sex hygiene, regulation by the state of marriage on an animal plane, rejection of the wedding of men and women through God's ministers. The next move of the new philosophers may be to do away with the old rite of matrimony and go the limit with a civil magistrate's certificate to protect those with property interests, and free love for the proletariat, the State to care for the children."

The report characterizes the radical as a tireless worker who turns to the unorganized ranks of labor when he finds his efforts rejected by the thoughtful trade unionist. In his code of materialism and class hatred, says the report, there is no room for morality of the Christian code. The work of the radicals in Mexico is described thus:

MEXICO DEMORALIZED.

"Tons of anarchistic literature sent across the Rio Grande during the past five years, for which the radicals of the United States are said to have contributed as much as $1,000 a month, have reached many Mexicans. The pernicious propaganda spread until the bandit chiefs found themselves at the head of military mobs, bent upon hunting Christ from the so-called republic.

"Aided by other revolutionary fac-

FINDS HER LOST BOY DEAD

While the body of sixteen-year-old Harry A. Sheppard of Somerville was being guarded by police and railroad men beside the "Narrow Gauge" tracks in East Boston today, awaiting identification, it was seen by the lad's mother, who was riding by in a train toward East Boston in search of him.

The mother, Mrs. Joseph Sheppard, noticed a group by the tracks as the train slowed up in passing. Her thoughts were only of her boy "hurt."

Other passengers noticed the group by the track. Then a white-clad figure was seen on the ground.

Suddenly a woman screamed.

"That's my boy, that's Harry. I saw him there by the track. Stop the train. My boy, my boy!"

CONDUCTOR STOPS TRAIN.

The woman dashed from her seat toward a door. She was almost on the platform when a brakeman stopped her. Women passengers gathered around the frantic mother in sympathy.

Mrs. Sheppard cried hysterically. The conductor came along. The train had rolled slowly along about 100 yards from where the boy's body was when the conductor, to spare the mother further delay, slowed up the train and the woman left the train and ran back to the trestle.

With the mother was her fourteen-year-old son Joseph, who helped her off the train and tried to comfort her.

The sobbing mother and the younger brother hurried back along the track. When they came to the throng surrounding the body the mother broke through quickly, gave one glance at the shapeless form on the ground and shrieked:

"It's Harry—he's dead—he's dead—I knew him from the train—he's dead."

Spectators comforted the mother as best they could. The police and assistant Medical Examiner Jutter Watters secured a formal identification from her. The body was ordered to North Grove Street Morgue.

The body was found at 5:20 o'clock. It was discovered by the engineer of an in-bound train.

The police reported that the top of the head was badly bruised. The body had been hurled down with such force that the head had become wedged between the ends of two ties. The police said the boy probably had fallen from a train going over the trestle. The trestle timbers are placed too near together to allow a body to fall into the tide water below.

SEPARATED FROM BROTHER.

Harry and his brother Joseph left their home early yesterday afternoon, went to Revere Beach and became separated in one of the amusement houses there. Harry was not strong physically or mentally. Joseph looked "all around for him in vain and told his mother, when he arrived home at

GIRL AUTOIST HITS WOMAN AND ESCAPES

A girl driving a touring car, which knocked down and seriously hurt Mrs. Hannah Gallivan on the Strandway at City Point this noon, gave one hasty glance back, according to the police, then threw on the high speed and whirled down the Strandway.

Motorcycle Officer Fred Bucher gave chase. The girl at the wheel of the touring car was a daring driver. She guided her machine around the Strandway curves at such terrific speed that she was able to keep ahead of Bucher and his motorcycle until she had a chance to whirl into a side street and escape.

Mrs. Gallivan was taken to the Carney Hospital in a private machine. She was placed on an operating table. It was reported from the hospital that her case was on the "dangerous" list and that she may have sustained serious internal injuries.

Mrs. Gallivan lives at No. 264 Mt. Auburn street, Cambridge. She was at City Point for a day's outing. She started to cross the Strandway near the Peninsula House.

According to the police report the girl-driven auto was hidden from Mrs. Gallivan's view until it was almost upon her. There was no one in the machine except the girl at the steering wheel.

PRESIDENT BLOCKS RAIL DELAY

Calls Conference of the Railroad Chiefs Despite Latters' Plans to Hold Off for Another Day

By International News Service.

Washington, Aug. 21.—President Wilson this afternoon suddenly called a halt on all further delay in the negotiations he is conducting with the representatives of the railroads of the country to avert the threatened nation-wide strike.

The President called the railroad heads to the White House at 2:30 this afternoon despite their efforts to prevent further conferences until tomorrow. After attempting to put off the meeting the railroad executives agreed to go to the White House this afternoon.

The railroad heads, in heated conference, had previously decided to wait until all of their number had reached Washington. This decision did not suit the President. He demanded that they appear before him today.

WILSON INSISTS.

The railroad executives then proposed that he lay his settlement plan before those railroad men who had reached Washington since last week's conference. But the President insisted that he wished all of them to hear what he had to say.

The railroad presidents made it clear that several of their colleagues would not reach Washington before late tonight but the President declared emphatically that he could wait no longer and they agreed to go to the White House.

The insistence of the President upon immediate conference led to the conclusion that he had determined to force the issue. Word was abroad in Washington that the representatives of the four railway brotherhoods presenting the strike demands had become impatient, and that strike orders had already been drawn and awaited only signatures to be issued.

Pressure from the men for immediate action met with a determined atmosphere of delay among the railroad executives. They declared they could not act with any authority until their attendance was complete. Even as they started for the White House the presidents insisted that so far as they were concerned the conference would develop nothing. They declared that they would once more

BRITISH MAKE GAIN NEAR MARTINPUICH

By FREDERICK PALMER.
Accredited correspondent with the British army of the Press of the United States.

At the British front in France, Aug. 21—10:30 a. m.—Not only have the British held all the gains won in Saturday's attack through the critical second day and night following, but they have made another important gain.

This morning they are within 500 yards of Martinpuich as the result of taking the redoubtable switch trench which had held them up between Pozieres and Highwood (Foreaux Forest.)

Here in the centre of their position, while they have been creeping up on both flanks, vicious attacks and counter attacks have raged for weeks. German resistance was strengthened after the loss of Pozieres, but at last the Germans have had to yield to the incessant hammering.

Repulse German Counter Attacks.

By SIDNEY B. CAVE.
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

London, Aug. 21.—Counter attacks were launched last night by the Germans against the new positions of the British on the Somme front, but all were repulsed, the War Office announced today, except northeast of Highwood (Foreaux forest), where patrols were withdrawn when set upon by detachments of superior numbers.

The text of the official report follows:

"After a heavy bombardment three bombing attacks were delivered at 1:30 o'clock this morning at High Wood (Foreaux forest), but all were easily repulsed. Northwest of High Wood some of our covering patrols withdrew before strong detachments of the enemy, which were unable to make progress when they came under the fire of our positions west of the wood.

"During the night we effectively shelled portions of the enemy's position, while the Germans bombarded our trenches in the vicinity of Pozieres and northeast of Contalmaison, using gas shells freely.

"Northwest of Hueilich and east of La Flaxlin the enemy attempted to raid our trenches, but was driven back with losses. He succeeded in reaching our lines at only one point, and there he was ejected very quickly. Near Givenchy, the enemy exploded a mine near one of our forward saps. It caused no casualties and we made use of the crater as a defensive post. Further north we liberated gas successfully against the enemy's position at two places."

Violent Artillery Duels in Trentino.

By International News Service.

Rome, Aug. 21.—Austro-Hungarian forces have continued their attacks at points removed from the Gorizia zone in an effort to ease the Italian pressure in that district. The War Office announced today that the Austro-Hungarians made attacks in the Astico valley and in the Plava sector, but were repulsed.

In Trentino violent artillery duels are in progress.

The War Office statement follows:

"Violent thunder storms over the theatre of operations did not reduce the artillery activity. Enemy batteries were especially active on the Trentino front and upper But. We shelled the Drave Valley, disturbing the movement of the enemy.

"Small enemy attacks in the Astico Valley and the Plava sector were repulsed. Twenty prisoners were taken. On the Carso plateau (Gorizia area) we consolidated positions recently captured. The enemy shelled Gorizia and the Isonzo bridge without result."

Turks Report Russian Retreat.

By International News Service.

Constantinople (via Berlin wireless), Aug. 21.—Another Russian repulse in Persia was reported by the Turkish War Office today in the following official statement:

"In the district of Zuha, 15 miles south of Ochsu and nine miles inside of the Turco-Persian frontier, the Turks attacked the Russians, forcing them to retreat."

Attack on Fleury With Liquid Fire

By CHARLES F. BERTELLI.
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Paris, Aug. 21.—Using liquid fire in great quantities, the Germans made a determined effort to recapture Fleury on the Verdun front last night, but were beaten off by the French.

The repulse of the German liquid fire attack was announced in the official communique of the War Office today.

A violent artillery duel has been raging on the Somme front.

The Germans opened with a tremendous bombardment of the ground captured yesterday by the French between Guillemont and Maurepas. The French replied with terrific gusts of gun fire to prevent the Germans from delivering counter attacks. The duel soon spread all along the line.

The text of the official communique follows:

"North of the Somme in the wood captured yesterday by our troops between Maurepas and Guillemont, we captured six guns. During the night there was a sharp artillery duel on the Somme front.

"On the right bank of the Meuse Verdun front, the Germans yesterday evening launched a strong attack, accompanied with the throwing of liquid fire, against the village of Fleury.

"Our curtain of fire and our rifle fire sharply halted the enemy, who suffered serious losses."

Austrians Report Italians Repulsed.

By International News Service.

Vienna, via Berlin wireless, Aug. 21.—The repulse of Italian attacks and the capture of a few prisoners was reported in an official statement dated August 19 and made public by the War Office today. It stated that Italian detachments were driven to the western bank of the Isonzo near Plava. The report follows:

"The combat front was rather quiet yesterday. In the Isonzo sector northeast of Plava our troops cleared the left bank of feeble hostile detachments. Near Globla and Britos we captured fifty prisoners. An Italian night attack against our front south of Vipparch, east of Gorizia, was repulsed.

"On the Fleimstal front, in an enterprise against advanced hostile positions southeast of Cima Di Boche, sixty-two prisoners, including two grenade throwers, were taken. Italian detachments advancing at night against our positions in the sector of Monte Zebbio were repulsed."

WAR SUMMARY

The Balkan offensive movement of the entente allies, now apparently in full swing on a 150-mile front on the Macedonian border, is today in many respects the most important of all war operations. With the official announcement today of notable gains for the British and French in the Doiran region, it becomes evident that Bulgarian resistance is about to be put to its severest test. It is commonly understood that the allied forces under General Sarrail number close to 700,000 men. The Bulgarian strength can hardly exceed 400,000.

With Russia and Italy exerting their maximum pressure against the Austrians, Bulgaria's ability single-handed to check the allied advance is a matter of grave doubt, and Turkey, it would seem, has her hands full with the Russians in the Caucasus and Persia. For these reasons the allied powers are looking with expectancy to the operations in the Balkans. During the next few weeks the attention of the world may be focussed on this theatre of the great war.

No developments of great importance have occurred on the Somme, at Verdun or on the eastern front during the past twenty-four hours. The British and French hold tenaciously to their newly won positions in Picardy, while the Russians, reporting slight gains, are still doggedly hammering the armies of Von Hindenburg and Archduke Karl.

Italy is evidently preparing for powerful new attacks on the Carso plateau and east of Gorizia, with Austria strengthening her positions to the utmost.

RUSSIANS GAIN ON STOKHOD

By International News Service.

Petrograd, Aug. 21.—Fresh successes by the Russians in Volhynia and in the Carpathian mountains were reported in the following official statement issued by the Russian war office today:

"On the Stokhod river we have advanced still further. Fighting continues at Toboly and Rudka Czerwiszke. Our capture in this region on Friday and Saturday amounted to sixteen officers, 1,250 men, some cannon, eighteen machine guns, four mortars and other war material.

"We have captured heights to the west of Nadvorna, in the Carpathians.

"On the Czernowitz front we have occupied the villages of Pereskul and Yalonitza and heights to the westward. We repulsed Austro-Hungarian attacks on the heights southwest of Tomnakik mountain.

"Caucasus front—In the direction of Diarbekr, in Armenia, we captured fortified heights and a large number of Turks."

Bulgarians Struck Unexpected Blow.

By International News Service.

Berlin, Aug. 21.—Bulgaria's army, according to today's dispatches from Sofia, not only anticipated a great offensive by the entente allies from Salonika, but struck the Anglo-French forces when they were least expecting it, thus advancing at various points a distance of from six to twenty miles.

"For several weeks ammunition has been going forward to the Bulgarian forces. Most of it has come from German munition factories. This supply service was halted for a time when the Anglo-French offensive on the Somme began, but this was only a precautionary measure as it was soon learned that the German troops in the West had sufficient ammunition to cope with the situation there.

The latest official Bulgarian report, received from Sofia today, follows:

"The whole Seventeenth Division of French cavalry participated in the battle of August 15. The enemy's artillery has continued its bombardment of our positions south and west of Lake Doiran. Enemy infantry attacked at two places, but the attacks broke down under our fire, while the attacking forces were compelled to retreat, leaving many dead behind.

"On August 15 a Serbian attack between Ostorovo and Prespa Lake was repulsed. Our troops pursued the enemy and captured Ostorovo. After strong artillery preparation the enemy attacked south and west of Lake Doiran, but was repulsed. We counter attacked and bayonet fighting followed. German aviators bombarded the enemy's railroads at several places, returning unharmed."

ROBBED OF $100 JEWELRY IN FIGHT

John J. Meaney of Pearl street, Somerville, who was stabbed in the face and neck following an argument over the trading of finger rings in an Adams square lunch room early today, discovered several hours later at the Relief Hospital that he had been robbed of $100 worth of jewelry. The police are searching for the assailant, who escaped after being chased into the North End by a crowd.

BIG BATTLE RAGING IN BALKANS

chief of staff showed decided advances by the Bulgarians on both the right and left wings. The Bulgars have advanced their patrols to a distance of only six miles from Kavala. The second official statement follows:

"An important action continues on the left of the allies' troops. In the direction of Lake Doiran both artillery are active. There were skirmishes at Farmy Hill.

"The Bulgarians are advancing in all Eastern Macedonia and have reached Ormanle. On the mountains dominating Seres, forty-three miles northeast of Salonica, the Bulgarians have occupied several Greek positions. These include Fort Lisse. The Bulgarians have advanced with strong forces in the region west of the Nestos and have pushed their patrols up to about ten kilometers (6.2 miles) from Kavala."

OCCUPY SPESDA HEIGHTS.

Unofficial reports state that the western Bulgar forces advancing from Florina have occupied the heights dominating Spesda, only a short distance from Koritza, the French and Serbian troops in that region having retired.

The official Serbian report, however, makes no mention of any Bulgarian movement in this direction, and states that the Serb advance guards are in contact with the Bulgarians in the region of Florina.

The Serbian statement follows:

"According to supplementary information, the Bulgarians suffered in the Moglenica valley on August 17 a loss of 400 killed and 600 wounded. The Serbians took 8 prisoners.

"The Bulgarians in the flight abandoned rifles and other war material. The Serbian losses were insignificant.

"In the region of Florina the Serbian advance guards are in contact with the Bulgarians."

The Bulgarian minister at Athens today informed Premier Zaimis that Bulgar troops had occupied the Greek town of Florina.

GENERAL BULGAR ATTACK.

The following report was issued this evening:

"On the whole front, the Bulgarians have begun a general attack extending from Florina to Demirhissar. They have crossed the Mesto (river near its mouth.

"Enemy aeroplanes yesterday bombarded Verstekop, killing several Greeks. This morning they bombarded hospitals at Vertekop. A bombardment of the town of Kilkis caused the death of several civilians."

He was president and treasurer of the New England Criterion Film Company and was widely known in the motion picture supply business. Our Influence Forfeited, Says London Times

London, Aug. 21.

THE London Times, in an editorial headed "The Great Neutral," says:

"America did not intervene and did not move a step to assert the moral rights she assumed by virtue of her insistent participation in The Hague Convention, and if by this failure she lost nothing of material importance, she certainly forfeited the post-bellum rights which would have been hers if she had taken upon herself the burdens and responsibilities of interference.

"This view is fully appreciated in those quarters where American neutrality has been upheld in the face of all criticism, and obviously it is the correct view."

Report Irish Potato Crop Is Threatened

By International News Service.

Washington, Aug. 21.—Ireland's potato crop, the staple food of the Emerald Isle, and practically the only means of subsistence in some parts of the island, is threatened by adverse conditions, according to confidential government advices. The crop is reported nearly ruined in the Kilkenny district.

In past years the failure of the Irish potato crop has caused tremendous suffering because of the strong reliance the country people place on this staple.

Serious famines have followed failure of this crop on several occasions.

U. S. "FIRST RATE" WITH THE FRENCH

New York, Aug. 21.—Among the passengers arriving today on the French liner LaFayette were W. G. Sharp, United States ammbassador to France, and his daughter Margaret. Ambassador Sharp would make no comment upon the war, but when asked how the United States stood with the French people he replied: "First rate."

ZEPPELINS FOIL TRAP FOR FLEET

The Hague, Aug. 21.—Thirty-seven of Germany's finest battleships, battle cruisers and light cruisers comprised the high seas fleet which put out Saturday in the hope of annihilating some detached portion of the ritish fleet, but returned to its base when it became apparent that the British commander had expected just such a stroke, according to information received here today.

In addition, the German warships were accompanied by a destroyer and submarine flotilla, while three Zeppelin airships were the above sea scouts. Two light British cruisers were sunk by the U-boats.

According to the same reports, only the Zeppelins saved the German fleet from running into a carefully set trap. These warned the German admiral just in time to prevent his coming into contact with the greater part of the British fleet which would have been disastrous, owing to the British fleet being much larger.

Berlin Claims All British Attacks Fail

By International News Service.

Berlin, Aug. 21.—Attacks by the allies on both the Somme and Verdun fronts were repulsed by the Germans last night, the War Office announces.

North of the Somme River German positions were vigorously assailed, but the assaults were checked by the German fire.

In the Verdun sector the French concentrated their efforts against Thiaumont work, on the eastern side of the Meuse, but were unable to advance.

On the east front Russian attacks on the Stokhod failed. In Galicia the forces of Archduke Karl captured Spasuki height.

In the Balkans the Teutonic allies have captured Vic Hill

tions, a savage minority has terrorized and demoralized a nation of 15,000,000 Christians. Public morality in Mexico is at a discount, but it will be restored in due time through the Christian morality planted deep in the hearts of the people by the Catholic missionary."

The report states that success has been gained in regulating moving pictures and the stage, but calls for further improvement in these lines.

The Catholic societies' convention was only one of seven gatherings which formally launched "Catholic week."

The day began with a high mass at the church of St. John the Baptist. Later in the forenoon, the German Catholic Central Verein held a session at which the annual report was presented. This stated that during the past year the total membership of the organization had been increased to more than 125,000.

DENOUNCES CARRANZA.

National Secretary Anthony Matre, in his report, criticized President Wilson for recognizing General Venustiano Carranza, the "arch-persecutor of the Catholic church in Mexico."

Speaking of the assurances given by the Mexican Ambassador designate that the de facto government would respect property and religious beliefs in Mexico, the report says:

"This promise of Carranza becomes a tactical mistake in view of the fact that the spoliation of convents and churches and the persecution of priests and nuns has gone merrily on. Not since the French revolution has the world witnessed such an orgy of murder, lust and the general defiance of right, human and divine.

"To those Catholics who have come to the jelly fish state of mind that forbids them to say a word of protest against the outrages committed in Mexico, let them now serve notice on our enemies in this country that they may now go the limit to us."

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR CAPT. HANLEY

The funeral of former Captain John J. Hanley of the Roxbury Crossing police station was held today at the Church of St. Mary of the Angel, Roxbury. A solemn high mass was celebrated by the Rev. Dennis J. Sullivan, pastor.

A large delegation from the Boston police department, headed by Superintendent Crowley, attended the services. Former Superintendent of Police Pierce and Captain Jeremiah Galliyan of the Roxbury Crossing station were present.

Before the church service prayer was offered at his late home, at No. 7 Holcroft street, Roxbury.

WARMEST AUGUST 21ST IN 33 YEARS

Today was the hottest August 21 in 33 years, according to the United States weather records at the Federal Building. Forecaster Smith predicted early that the mercury would probably go to 96 before sundown. A cool northeast breeze was all that kept the heat within bounds. The weather bureau ranged from 75 at 8 a. m. to 88 at noon.

New Turn in Fight to Save Stielow from Death Chair

By International News Service.

Albion, N. Y., Aug. 21.—The fight to save from electrocution Charles F. Stielow, convicted of murdering Charles U. Phelps and Jl. Ingrid Wilcott, took a new turn today when counsel for the condemned man dispatched to Governor Whitman a demand that District-Attorney John Knickerbocker of Orleans county be barred from participation in the special hearing to be held at Rochester.

The Governor was requested to appoint an unprejudiced District-Attorney to handle the case.

The hearing at Rochester was ordered by Governor Whitman for the purpose of having Knickerbocker show cause why Stielow should not have a new trial owing to newly discovered evidence. The new evidence was a confession by Irving King that cleared Stielow of the crime, but this was later repudiated by King.

Build Submarine Chaser Here for Herman Oelrichs

An automobile trip which Herman Oelrichs, the Newport and New York millionaire, made from Newport to Boston today developed the news that he is having a sixty-foot gasoline launch built, to be used as a submarine chaser.

Mr. Oelrichs is so keen for preparedness that he will have a boat in the Newport motor boat squadron which is to form one of the naval auxiliaries.

The launch is being built at the George Lawley yards in Neponset and will be completed in about ten days. Mr. Oelrichs came in from Newport today to watch progress.

It was reported from Newport that the Oelrichs craft was to be launched today. Lawley's arranged to launch about 4:30 this afternoon a new 140-foot gasoline pleasure launch which has just been completed for W. Earl Dodge of Newport and New York. It will be named the Schalo.

REPORT 'LEGAL' ON MIDDLESEX DISTRICTS

The Attorney-General's office of Massachusetts today refused to take up the fight against the apportionment of representatives in Middlesex County.

At the close of a hearing on the matter Assistant Attorney-General Nelson P. Brown addressed a letter to the protestants saying that "the apportionment appears to be legal."

Representative John H. Lynch, a Cambridge Democrat, asserted that the report of the county commissioners on the apportionment was printed before the day on which they were authorized to make the apportionment.

"It was cut and dried before a hearing was given," declared Representative Lynch.

The county commissioners are Republicans.

Assistant Attorney-General Brown ruled that the apportionment was an administrative duty and the commissioners were not required to give a hearing. He said there was nothing in the law to prevent the commissioners from apportioning the representative districts before the legal date of meeting so long as the meeting was held at the proper time and the apportionment was legally announced.

The Attorney-General's office has already protested against the apportionment plan of Suffolk County.

SONS RETURN AFTER 23 YEARS' ABSENCE

Folowing being given up for dead after an absence from home of twenty-three years, Joseph Mayo, Jr., thirty-nine, and his brother, John Mayo, forty-eight, today returned to the parental roof tree at No. 57 East Springfield street, South End. The "boys" left home following the death of their mother in 1893 at Woodstock, Vt., and went West. Their father moved to Boston with their sister, Mrs. E. D. Smith. Years passed and no word came from the missing sons and brothers. Today they put in an appearance at their father's home and were welcomed as having returned from the grave.

HELD FOR DEATH IN DICE GAME FIGHT

Steve Pasgernik, an amateur pugilist, was held in $2,000 bail on a manslaughter charge in Salem court today for a continued hearing on August 28. The police accuse him of hitting Michael Jwanowski so hard with his fist three times in a quarrel at a crap game yesterday that Jwanowski died on the way to Salem Hospital. Pasgernik was arrested in Lynn last night.

LOWELL RUNAWAY GIRL HOME AGAIN

Lowell, Aug. 21.—Alice M. Tobin, thirteen years old and pretty, Lowell's champion runaway girl, was brought home to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Tobin of No. 15 Liberty street, today after her third "week-end" at Revere Beach. When last "captured" she was eating from a huge bag of candy on the main street in Woburn.

MAN HURT IN AUTO CRASH

Robert H. Bonney of No. 186 Regent street, Roxbury, was seriously injured and 500 yards of trolley wire were pulled down today when the automobile in which Bonney was riding was struck by an inbound Newton-Brighton semi-convertible car, heavily laden with passengers, at Hinsdale street and Commonwealth avenue, Back Bay.

The automobile was thrown against an iron pole between the tracks, snapping it off short, and dragging down the trolley wires. The auto was wrecked.

Bonney, suffering from cuts and bruises, was taken in a passing automobile to St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Brighton, where his injuries were said to be serious.

Witnesses of the accident say that the motorman did everything to avert the accident, but the heavily loaded car did not respond to the brakes immediately.

Today's accident included the records for the past twenty-four hours show that one person is dead and twenty-seven are in the hospital as a result of sixteen automobile accidents in Massachusetts.

'DUMMY' POLICEMAN CAPTURES AUTOIST

Haverhill, Aug. 21.—William Houston, whose auto ran into a "dummy policeman" in Lafayette square and was then stopped by the dummy getting tangled in the wheels, was charged in the police court today with operating a car while under the influence of liquor. He pleaded not guilty and was held for a continuance on August 23. The "dummy policeman" is a "Go to the Right" sign mounted on a heavy base and used in place of a living traffic officer.

ORGANIZE WAR ON VICE

New York, Aug. 21.—Impelled to action by the revelations concerning the "white slave" traffic in this city, a committee of twelve—each individual prominent in a particular line of endeavor and vitally interested in sociological work—has been formed to devise means for overcoming the evil.

Based on their knowledge of social problems, probably no better qualified committee was ever brought together with the definite purpose of adopting corrective influences. The personnel follows:

Mrs. William Einstein, Mrs. William Grant Brown, Alice C. Smith, Miss Florence Guernsey, Mrs. Daniel F. Murphy, Mrs. Walston Hill Brown, Mrs. Charles Austin Bates, Mrs. Mortimer Menken, Mrs. Mary Masters Needham, Mrs. Julian Heath, Judge Aaron J. Levy and the Rev. Dr. Charles A. Eaton.

District Attorney Swann and Police Commissioner Woods have promised to co-operate with the committee, and do all in their power to further its plan. To this end, Judge Swann in the next few days probably will call the committee into conference and outline his views on the situation. It is probable Commissioner Woods and other members of the city administration directly concerned with the question, may also be present.

"It is the most effective step ever taken by public-spirited citizens to rid the city of the white slave evil," said Commissioner Woods, when informed of the project. "It is exactly what I have been waiting for, and hoping for, during my entire term. They may look forward to the hearty co-operation of the police department."

"Food Is Its Own Best Digestant"

"All too frequently, we prescribe medicines for patients who suffer from indigestion, when, as a matter of fact, what they actually need is a simple course of dietetic training, and the proper food-stuffs to train on.

"This is the famous "reason" for the popularity of Grape-Nuts as an article of diet, viz., that it furnishes this very course of training for the digestion. It not only furnishes the natural diastase for the process of digestion, but it favors a return to normal digestive function because the firm, crisp kernels compel thorough mastication.

"One ought not to leave out of consideration the psychic element—the delicious treat to the palate afforded by a dish of Grape-Nuts and cream."

DISSENSION IN THE RANKS OF THE RAILROAD PRESIDENTS

listen to the President's proposals and take them under consideration.

REPORT DENIED.

The circumstances of the call led to a report that the President was prepared to set a time limit on the consideration of the proposal by the railroads, but White House officials asserted that the conference was called merely to "talk things over" and that no drastic move was contemplated.

Desultory conferences throughout the day kept the railroad executives and their committee of railroad managers in a turmoil of heated discussion. Sharp differences of opinion aggravated by the arrival of new executives with fresh ideas were apparent.

A small but industrial group sought to secure a complete acceptance of the President's proposal, but this was determined opposition. The "Old Guard" of railroad domination came to Washington today and came prepared to fight.

The "Old Guard" who fought railroad battles in the days of Harriman, the Goulds and the elder Vanderbilt arrived with some very clear ideas as to their position, but they were "willing to talk things over" and "to abide by the majority decision."

Louis W. Hill, president of the Great Northern, was the center of a scattering group as soon as he reached the hotel where the railroad presidents have their headquarters. He would make no statement.

E. P. Ripley, Santa Fe head, veteran of the early railroad struggles of the West, with his seventy years borne but lightly on his broad shoulders, looked over the groups of railroad presidents as he entered the hotel lobby with a grim smile.

"This is sure a hell of a game," was his only comment.

Judge J. M. Dickinson, former Secretary of War and now operating receiver of the Rock Island lines, also arrived today. He, too, was silent. W. L. Mapother of the Louisville & Nashville, W. B. Story, vice-president of the Santa Fe, and George T. Slade, vice-president of the Northern Pacific, put in their appearance.

NEW CAMPAIGN.

The managers' committee today began to get results from a campaign among business organizations, manufacturers and shippers' associations, seeking to influence President Wilson.

Scores of telegrams reached Washington urging that the entire controversy be settled by arbitration.

Meanwhile, the representatives of the four brotherhoods held a brief meeting, decided that nothing would be done today and adjourned until tomorrow. The brotherhood representatives heard numerous telegrams from their home locals read congratulating them upon their position and urging them to stand firm.

The President has declared his determination to retain an unyielding position on the eight-hour day and has outlined his position as arbitration in the following telegram:

The White House, Aug. 20, 1916.

Mr. George Pope, President,

National Association of Manufacturers,

Hartford, Ct.

Allow me to acknowledge the receipt of your telegram of August 18 and say in reply that I hold to the principle of arbitration with as clear a conviction and as firm a purpose as anyone, but that unfortunately there is no means now in existence by which arbitration can be secured. The existing means have been tried and have failed.

This situation must never be allowed to rise again, but it has risen. Some means must be found to prevent its recurrence, but no means can be found off-hand or in a hurry or in season to meet the present national emergency.

What I am proposing does not weaken or discredit the principle of arbitration. It strengthens it, rather. It proposes that nothing be conceded except the eight-hour day, to which the whole economic movement of the time seems to point, and the immediate creation of an agency for determining all the arbitrable elements in this case in the light, not of predictions or forecasts but of established and ascertained facts.

This is the first stage of the direct road to the discovery of the best permanent basis for arbitration whether other means than those now available are supplied.

Report Japan Obtains Land Near Canal

By International News Service.

Washington, Aug. 21.

REPORTS that the Japanese government, through a Spanish agent, had obtained a land concession of sixty thousand acres on the Atlantic seaboard of Panama are being investigated by secret service agents of the United States.

Secretary of State Lansing today admitted that the investigation was under way, but he refused to discuss it further. According to the unofficial reports which have reached the State Department, the land is to be used by Japan as a naval base. The Spaniard who is alleged to have obtained the land for Japan is an agent in Havana, Cuba, of Japanese silk firms.

THREE DEATHS FROM PLAGUE IN ONSET

Conrad, of Brockton.

All children will be barred from motion picture theatres in Brockton, following a meeting of the Board of Health today. The board voted to close all playgrounds in the city, to call off an athletic meet scheduled for Wednesday, and also to confer with officers of the Central Labor Union relative to postponing a picnic outing on Labor Day.

BAR CHILDREN.

It was also voted to bar all children from Brockton who have been staying at Onset.

Dr. E. E. Kelly, director of the Communicable Diseases Division of the State Department of Health, said he regarded the number of new cases as "gratifyingly small" and that time the report of three deaths in Onset had not reached his office.

The total number of cases in Massachusetts since August 1 is 141. The new cases, with the exception of the four previously reported and of the Onset cases, are:

Adams—Jennie Dyne, No. 28 Winter street.

Beverly—Dorothy N. Woodworth, No. 25 Simon street.

Bourne—Grace Nilton of Bournedale.

Northampton—Arlie Western, No. 86 Meadow road.

Stoughton—Fred Barry, No. 54 Perry street, and Mathew Jacobs, Central street.

Amesbury—Joseph Batal, No. 42 Currier street.

EDWARD J. BROOKS WAS NOT ARRESTED

In an article concerning a boundary controversy over a house lot of Edward J. Brooks on Forest street, Medford, it was erroneously stated that Mr. Brooks had been arrested for working on Sunday. Alderman Frank Volpe says he called up Brooks on the telephone and told him that if he (Brooks) persisted in working on Sunday he would be arrested. Volpe says: "I then told Chief of Police Walsh, who sent Patrolman Buffum up."

Brooks says that Volpe never warned him that he would have him arrested for working on Sunday. He says he never worked on Sunday, anyway. All he did, he says, was to straighten up a few trellis posts which were not exactly perpendicular. When Patrolman Buffum called, Brooks says that he was fixing a hole to start in front of the house, and that the officer said: "Are you working on Sunday?" "Does it look like it?" replied Brooks. Whereupon the policeman found no offence and responded to the station. Brooks says that at no time was he ever arrested in connection with the affair.

MOTHER FINDS LOST BOY DEAD

10 o'clock at night, that he had lost Harry.

The mother hastened to the Metropolitan Park police station at Revere, reported the boy's absence and gave his description. She spoke particularly of his white knickerbockers and a certain new style of suspenders which he wore. The mother hunted along the beach until 11, when she returned home.

She was up so early today that she arrived at Boston police headquarters soon after 5 a. m. Here description of the boy was given to the district stations. Then she hurried down to Revere by trolley.

If she had gone down by the "Narrow Gauge," she might have learned of the boy's death then, for the body had been found and was being guarded by the side of the track, pending the arrival of the medical examiner. When the mother arrived at the Metropolitan police station in Revere, between 7 and 8 o'clock, she was told that a boy had been hurt in East Boston, and she would best go there.

She boarded a train for East Boston, but in her distraction, got off at Orient Heights by mistake. She took the next train inward and recognized her dead boy from the car window.

'Guilty,' Declares Judge When Man Fails to Testify

There was an interesting arraignment in South Boston Court today between Judge Day and John F. McDonald, counsel for Jacob Bornstein, a shoe dealer at No. 19 West Broadway. Bornstein was found guilty of receiving stolen goods and sentenced to a month in the House of Correction. He appealed.

The government charged that the defendant had received a case of thirty-six pairs of shoes, stolen from the Boston & Albany railroad.

McDonald claimed the government had not proved ownership and had not made out a case.

Judge Day said that if McDonald did not put his client on the stand he would find him guilty.

McDonald replied that he had never heard such a statement in his long experience in court work. He reiterated that he would not put Bornstein on the stand, whereupon Judge Day declared Bornstein guilty.

The Rev. Mark J. Sullivan, pastor of the Church of the Sacred Heart at Manchester-by-the-Sea, was the celebrant of the mass. Other officers were the Rev. William H. O'Connell of St. Margaret's Church, deacon; the Rev. Charles Illig of St. Joseph's Church, sub-deacon, and the Rev. Edwin Daly of Jamaica Plain, master of ceremonies.

PERMIT LEPER TO LEAVE FOR CUBAN HOME

The State authorities have a perfect right to allow Porfirio Diaz, the wealthy young Cuban who is suffering from leprosy, to return to his home, according to a statement made today by an agent of the State Board of Charity.

Diaz, accompanied by a physician and a nurse, left today by automobile for New York, where he will take passage for Cuba. Two weeks ago it was discovered he was suffering from leprosy. Wealthy friends of the young man used their influence with the result that he is now on his way home instead of journeying to the leper colony at Penikese Island.

The agent of the board said that body was authorized to send a person suffering from the disease to his home provided it was satisfied he would receive proper care on his arrival. Diaz will occupy a specially quarantined cabin on his way south.

FOUR LIVES LOST IN DROWNING ACCIDENTS

Four persons were drowned and six others were rescued in New England waters in the past twenty-four hours.

Three men are being held by the Brockton police pending an investigation into the death of Adam Synkiewitz of Snow street, Brockton, whose body was found in Lake Nippinicket, Bridgewater.

Synkiewitz had $100 with him when he went fishing with three men. When his body was found there was only $ in his pocket. The men being detained are Michael Corbey and John Phillips of Market street, Brockton, and Charles Watewitz of Perkins street, Brockton.

Roy Bragdon of Portland, Me., was drowned when an automobile in which he was riding plunged over the Marsh bridge into the Cousins River in Yarmouth, Me. His three companions were rescued.

G. H. Doon, twenty-two, of Willia avenue, Lowell, lost his life when he was knocked off a motor boat, following a collision with another boat on Lake Massapoag, Lowell.

Simon Peter Nolan, a fisherman, was drowned when he slipped off the Atlantic Docks at Gloucester. His son, Clifford J. Nolan, seventeen, recovered the body after a search of many hours.

The body of an unidentified man about seventy years old was found floating off Castle Is'nd. The harbor police were notified and the body was sent to the North Grove street morgue.

Walter Johnson of Manchester, N. H., who was visiting friends in Gloucester, rescued a girl, thirteen, from drowning at Niles Beach, Gloucester.

William Rondeau, forty, was rescued by two lifeguards at Salisbury Beach, when heavy waves caused him to lose his footing.

Members of the City Point Volunteer Live-saving Corps rescued a boy and two men at the beach at City Point.

Short-Handled Shovels Cause of Waltham Strike

A dozen city laborers in Waltham struck today on account of short-handled shovels.

"We've used long-handled shovels a long time, eighteen year," they told the foreman, "We'll get kinks in our backs from short handles."

City Engineer Walter Bertram pacified the strikers, saying:

"We are short of long-handled shovels just now and long on short-handled ones. But go back to work and I'll have some long-handled shovels shortly."

The strikers went back on the job and the long-handled shovels arrived before long.

'Bully,' Declares Miriam Hubbard Leaving Harvard

"Bully," in the way pretty Miriam Hubbard, daughter of the late Elbert Hubbard, summarized her stay as a pupil in the Harvard Summer School. Her noted father took occasion many years ago to write some caustic references to the Cambridge University after he spent a Summer there.

"I am very, very sorry to leave," said Miss Hubbard. "I not only had fun studying, but fun otherwise. Indeed, I will be back again next year."

Miss Hubbard before leaving presented one of the attendants at Smith Hall with a chair and an expensive rug which she purchased for her room only six weeks ago. Miss Mary E. Swan of Chicago, Miss Hubbard's chum, is also to return to Cambridge next Summer.

ARREST CLERK IN BROCKTON RAID

Brockton, Aug 21—The police early today raided the drug store of James E. O'Conner, at Grove and Main streets, and seized a quantity of liquor. James P. Peterson, thirty-eight, of West Bridgewater, a clerk, was arrested charged with an illegal sale of liquor.

IRISH URGE U. S. STOP BRITISH OUTRAGES

The Roger Casement Branch of the Friends of Irish Freedom at the meeting in Franklin Hall, Sunday, endorsed the resolutions adopted at the Faneuil Hall meeting, under the auspices of the Friends of Irish Freedom, protesting against the rifling of American mails, the blacklisting of American business firms and contemptuous treatment by England of American citizens.

The following resolution was also adopted:

Resolved—That the new order in Council which prohibits Americans and others "from parts beyond the seas" from entering Ireland, and proclaiming that "any such persons * * * found in Ireland will be regarded as guilty of a summary offence" indicates the acute international character of the Irish problem and forges one more link in the unbreakable chain of evidence which shows that there can be but one satisfactory solution of that problem, as regarded not only in the Interest of the people of Ireland but equally in that of international comity, namely, the complete severance of the British connection.

JOHN D. LAUGHS DURING SERMON

Cleveland, O., Aug. 21.—John D. Rockefeller laughed right out in the Euclid Avenue Baptist Church when Dr. F. W. Philpott of Hamilton, Ont., said from the pulpit:

Enoch had his trials because he had sons and daughters, as every one has trials also who is in the same situation.

Mr. Rockefeller did not explain why the statement amused him.

This brings the price of egg coal up to $8 a ton, stove and nut to $8.25, furnace to $7.25, pea to $6.25 and Franklin to $9.50. The retail prices of coke and soft coal will remain unchanged for the present.

Evers Is About Ready

Return Expected Soon

Cincinnati, Aug. 21.—Pitcher Tom Hughes of the Braves today believes there is something in that old saying about the third time being the charm. Hughes went to the rescue of a faltering brother slabber yesterday for the third time in as many days and his third attempt at pinch-hitting on this Western jaunt was the first that landed a victory for the Braves.

Over at St. Louis Tom went to the rescue both Friday and Saturday, but the Braves lost each game. Yesterday, when Stallings sent Hughes in to replace Allen against the Reds, Tom remained in charge and the Braves were returned victors, 4-2.

As a result of the victory the Braves are only a game and one-half out of second place with Nehf and Rudolph left to pitch the games today and tomorrow.

Evers or Fitzpatrick is likely to displace Egan at second before the Braves move out of Cincinnati, as both players are about ready for duty. Dick is doing fair work at bat and can be supplanted for the club's good.

Stallings jerked Allen just in the nick of time to save yesterday's game. The Reds had cut down Boston's early lead to one run and had the bases full with only one out and Groh coming up, in the fourth inning, when Allen was told he was through. Hughes fanned Groh, making Heinie swing at three bad balls, and then got Rousch on a foul to Wilhoit.

Thereafter the Reds gave the Braves very little trouble, in fact, only one man reached second base after Hughes went to the hill.

Next to Hughes, "Rabbit" Maranville was the big noise in the game. The midget weighed in with four screaming singles and played a wonderful fielding game. He got nine of his ten chances, some of them being extremely flashy. His error came when he dropped the ball as Wingo was stealing in the eighth. The bobble, however, cost nothing.

Shriners' Day at Park

Speaker to Be Honored

By HERMAN NICKERSON.

There are but seventeen games left on the American League schedule to be played by the Red Sox at their home field. Cleveland is here for three, Detroit for three and St. Louis for four, which closes the present series against the Western clubs.

The final game with the climbing Browns comes on August 31. The Champions will then make their final trip about the Eastern and Western circuits, returning to Fenway Park on September 27 for four games with New York, followed by the last games of the year, three with the Athletics.

This puts it up to the Carrigan crew to get busy, and there is no day like the present for a start.

Manager Carrigan will probably start either Mays or Shore today, while the twirler for the Indians will be either Morton or Coveleskie.

While the Red Sox are playing Cleveland the White Sox are in New York, where Donovan's men should give them a hard battle all the way. The Windy City boys got away with one Saturday, but this is no indication that the Yankees will not set them back.

LOTS OF TIGHT BATTLES.

The games the boys won last week were all by one run, showing how hard they have been pressed. The games they lost were by wide scores, their opponents putting up a total of twenty-five runs against their seventeen for the seven games.

This is the day when Aleppo Temple A. A. O. N. M. S. turns out about 3,000 members to make another Shriners' Day a big success. There will be numerous features, together with the appearance of the Aleppo Fife, Drum and Bugle Corps of sixty men, and the Meisteraingers, who will furnish the vocal part of the program.

"Bennie" Oethues, known to fame as about the best announcer in town, will make himself heard above the din when occasion requires. The attending members will appear wearing the fez and Potentate Walter W. Morrison declares that this will be the best day of the many on which the bobbies have turned out in contribute to the popularity of Tris Speaker.

The fun is due to start around 2 p. m. Tris will be notified that he has been made a life member of Aleppo, something he will value above all else.

FANS ARE TURNING OUT.

Since the return of the Red Sox from the West, in seven days, the total attendance has been 84,205 or an average of 12,044 a game. This is getting the people into a park and means only one thing, that the Red Sox are an extremely popular team.

The game Saturday was a hard one to lose, upon the part of the Cleveland club. Hoehler's numerous passes and his wildness in the ninth putting it over for Boston. Still, part of the game offensively is to wait a pitcher out, when after eight innings, in which the hits could not be bunched, he showed unmistakable signs of weakening.

Getting on in the thing, and Jarvin showed a good eye and a cool head in getting that walk, filling the sacks. Some may claim it was a cheap game.

From the situation I think Hooper did the proper thing in not taking a swing. Although Barry can usually pole a long fly, the danger of hitting into a double play was there. So he just waited and it proved the thing to do.

GARDNER DELIVERING BIG.

Larry Gardner has played a remarkable game the past week. Defensively he has shown rare form, and his hits have been numerous and timely. Larry has been working under a handicap. He is nursing a very painful toe joint, still none would have suspected he wasn't in the pink of condition.

Jack Barry and Scott have been a great combination, and the outfield is set for the final drive to the flag. Lewis, Walker and Hooper look very good right now, and barring injuries to men and with an improvement in the pitching, which hasn't been of the championship type the past week, the coming six days should find the Red Sox with an increased lead.

The team should have a lead of at least six games to start away with. Given this, the club should not be headed. The race for the flag is to be close right up to the end, with the Champions having the edge from now on.

Merman Fights Shark
Sullivan Sets Record

A thrilling story of how Charles Toth of the L Street Swimming Club battled with a monster shark in Massachusetts Bay and finally escaped the sea demon by seeking refuge in a boat which accompanied him is told by the attendants who went with the famous merman on his Marathon swimming race with Henry Sullivan of Lowell.

The contest was won by Sullivan, who covered a distance of twenty-five miles after being in the water for 20h. 28m. Toth swam 17½ miles after battling with the waves for 14h. 22m. Toth, however, might have won the race if he had not been attacked by a hungry sea demon, which pursued him through the deep waters of Massachusetts Bay.

HUGE SHARK SIGHTED.

Toth was accompanied by a boat containing S. L. Durkee, Dr. Frederick A. Davis and Henry Sullivan, Jr. After Toth had been in the water for fourteen hours, huge breakers were noticed in front of him.

"Breakers ahead," shouted Dr. Davis from his position in the boat.

Toth lowered his head in the water so that the breakers would pass over him. As he approached the spot where the breakers were he heard a shout from the boat.

"Look out, Charley, it's a shark," cried one of his attendants.

The swimmer gazed in the direction of the breakers and was startled to see a giant shark—at least nine feet long—leaping the waves with enormous fins. He sighted Toth and started to swim in his direction.

The attendants in the boat cried for Toth to swim for the boat which they immediately headed in his direction. Meanwhile, Toth started swimming with all of his great skill, splashing and churning the water as much as possible in order to keep the sea monster at bay. Those in the boat shouted and made outcries in an effort to frighten the shark.

The monster changed his course and dashed between the boat and Toth. The latter continued to splash and create a disturbance in the water. The shark was apparently frightened for he circled around him and again cut in between the rugged swimmer and the boat which he was struggling to reach. Toth's attendants believe that his actions in the water and their wild shouts caused the shark to hesitate in attacking the swimmer.

As the shark passed between Toth and the boat for the second time, the swimmer made a few quick overhand strokes, reached the boat and was hauled to safety by eager hands. The shark swam toward the boat, submerged and almost caused the boat to turn turtle as it passed under it. The monster then disappeared.

Toth was examined by Dr. Davis, who declared he was in excellent physical condition and capable of swimming many more miles. D. A. Ambuter, who assisted Toth during parts of the long race, stated today that if the L street man had not been attacked by a shark he would have remained in the water for many more hours. As it was, Sullivan's mark of twenty-five miles for 20h. 28m. in the water sets a new American record.

FINE RACE BY SULLIVAN.

Sullivan gave a wonderful account of himself. He swam a remarkable race from the time the two men dove into the water at Cape Race off Provincetown until he left the water. During the contest he ate considerable steak, chicken, grapes and took other stimulating refreshments. After Toth left the water, Sullivan took things easy, and, although he remained in the water for several hours, he did not attempt to swim far. He was closely guarded for fear a shark would attack him.

Sullivan escaped the monsters by keeping to an inside course. Toth, however, pushed far out into the bay.

Soon after Toth was forced to leave the water a ninety-foot finback whale was seen spouting within a quarter of a mile of Sullivan. Captain N. Leslie Smith of Winthrop and John J. Conlon of Lowell, who acted as Sullivan's mentors, did not apprise him of this fact, as they were afraid it would make him nervous. Neither did they inform him that Toth had been forced to quit on account of a shark.

Both Sullivan and Toth swam under serious handicaps. The latter's main launch had derbies failed to put in appearance, so that he was compelled to set out with only one small tender and one small launch. At one time the launch ran short of gasolene, and left him for three-quarters of an hour, during which time he swam in circles.

Sullivan was forced to walk from the life-saving station to Race of gasoline, and left him for three miles over the hot sands—just before the start of the race. He was perspiring freely when he entered the water and was in distress for the first five hours. He soon contracted cramps in both legs and another cramp in his back. Only his indomitable grit and unconquerable perseverance kept him in the race.

LANGER CLAIMANT OF NEW MILE MARK

Ocean Park, Cal., Aug. 21.—Lody Langer, Los Angeles A. A., won the national mile swimming championship, establishing what local officials declared to be a new world's record of 23 minutes 11 seconds for the distance. Norman Ross, Olympic Club of San Francisco, finished second in 23 minutes 22 seconds.

Herbert Vellmer, New York A. C., took the lead at the start, but the pace he set was too fast and he quit after swimming 220 yards. Tedd Cann of the New York A. C. also became exhausted and did not finish.

MISS GALLIGAN WINNER.

St. Louis, Aug. 21.—Miss Claire Galligan of New Rochelle, N. Y., swimming for the National Woman's Life-Saving League of New York, captured her fourth national championship in the four-mile river swim of the Western Rowing Club. Miss Galligan won as she pleased in the fast time of 1lm. 26s. The distance was not quite four miles.

Braves' Boss in Chicago Angling For Heinie Zim

CHICAGO, Aug. 21.—Manager Stallings of the Braves is here endeavoring to induce President Weeghman and Manager Tinker of the Cubs to accept a bundle of money, or several players, to exchange for Heinie Zimmerman.

Zimmerman is to go. That's a settled fact. The great hitter has outlived his usefulness here and Tinker thinks his team will be better off without the high-strung German.

Brooklyn, Philadelphia and New York, as well as Boston, are in the field for Zimmerman.

Stallings stated early this morning that he had an engagement for 12 o'clock with Weeghman and Tinker and was hopeful he would prove the successful bidder. The Boston skipper must bid high, if he is to acquire Zimmerman, as his three rivals in the field are understood to have made offers of vast magnitude.

CLAIMED BY EBBETS.

President Ebbets claims he will surely beat Stallings and Mgrau to Heinie. His bid, which Tinker, it is said, will accept, includes a pitcher, Infielder Getz and a bundle of long green.

AL MAMAUX MAY BE TRADED BY PIRATES

Pittsburgh, Aug. 21.—Al Mamaux, regarded as the greatest young pitcher to make his appearance in the major leagues in recent years, may be traded by the Pirates. The young pachoch is at odds with the management of the club, which suspended him Saturday for ten days.

Mamaux asserts that never again will he hurl a ball for the Pirates. Manager Callahan charged that the youngster failed to live up to the training rules, but this is denied by the pitcher. Barney Dreyfuss and Callahan are said to be considering the advisability of trading him.

HOWARD GOES WEST IN DEAL FOR GUISTO

Infielder Howard of the Indians has been turned over to the Portland (Pacific Coast League) club in exchange for First Baseman Louis Guisto. Pitchers Hasenman, Loudermilk and Kelly, outfielders Wille and Southworth and Infielder Evans, as well as some money, also figured in the deal. Guisto was originally booked to report to Manager Fohl at once but now that "Chic" Gandil is back with the team the Coast sensation will probably not come East until Spring.

HAPGOOD BACK IN TOWN.

Business Manager Hapgood of the Braves is back in town. He admits that he went from St. Louis to Chicago and opened overtures with the Cubs management for the acquisition of Heinie Zimmerman. Manager Stallings is in Chicago today trying to put through the deal which will land the slugging German in a Brave uniform

SLUGGER FOR DODGERS.

Asheville, N. C., Aug. 21.—Outfielder Jimmy Hickman of the Asheville (North Carolina League) club, who got eight hits out of nine times at bat, Thursday, has been recalled by Manager Robinson of the Brooklyn Nationals. Hickman has been ordered to report for duty in Cincinnati, Thursday.

MACKS LANDS OLD "PING."

San Francisco, Aug. 21.—More hard luck for "Ping" Bodie, the demon fence-buster. He is to return to the big show and Connie Mack is the man who has landed him. So officially stated Manager Harry Wolverton today.

CYCLISTS IN TITLE RACE

First Heat of National Championship at Revere Oval Tonight. Wiley Meets Didier.

TONIGHT'S REVERE CARD.

National motor-paced championship (first heat, 25 miles, first two men to qualify). Starters: Bobby Walthour, Atlanta, Ga.; Menus Bedell, New York; Fred Herbert, Fall River; "Pinkie" Turville, Revere.

Special match motor-paced race (15 miles). George Wiley, Syracuse, N. Y., vs. Leon Didier, France.

Amateur and professional events.

Tonight's racing bill at the Revere cycle track is one of the spiciest of the season. In addition to the running off of the first heat of the National motor-paced championship, with a field embracing such speed-demons as Bobby Walthour, Menus Bedell, Fred Herbert and "Pinkie" Turville, George Wiley, the diminutive Syracuse, N. Y., flyer, will meet Leon Didier, the French star, in a special match race at fifteen miles.

Wiley and Didier had it out in hot and heavy fashion at the beach oval Saturday night. Immediately after the struggle the two sought out Manager Nat Butler and asked for a match race. Butler is opposed to two-men motor-paced races, but Wiley and Didier pleaded so earnestly he finally decided to let them come together.

The first heat of the title race will be ridden over a twenty-five mile course and the first two men finishing will qualify for the finals, to be decided later on in the season.

Just who the men to qualify will be is more or less of a puzzle. If anything the two local lads appear to have better than an even chance of securing one or even both of the qualification positions. Herbert has rode impressively in almost every start this year and if given the right sort of pace must be figured in the final running.

SPEARS SETS MARK AGAINST KRAMER

Newark, N. J., Aug. 21.—Bob Spears, the Australian cyclist, defeated champion Frank Kramer for the fourth time this season in a match race at the Velodrome yesterday. The distance was one mile, and Spears won two out of three heats.

It marked a wonderful achievement for Spears, and is the first time Kramer's long string of wins as a cyclist that he has been beaten four times in one season at match race riding.

Arthur Spencer, the Toronto boy, created another surprise by beating Alfred Goulett in the Brassard-Reggie McNamara of Australia won the miss and out race and fifteen-mile open for the professionals.

WORLD'S RECORDS SMASHED ON COAST

San Diego, Cal., Aug. 21. — One world's record was broken and another was equalled, but not allowed, in the A. A. U. track and field meet held here.

John Norton of the Olympic Club, San Francisco, was credited with breaking the world's record in the 220-yard low hurdles on a curved track, his time being 24⅘ seconds.

In the 120-yard high hurdles Fred Kelley, Los Angeles A. C., equalled the world's record of 14 ⅘ seconds and broke the far Western record of fifteen seconds.

AMERICAN SOCCER TEAM WINS ABROAD

Stockholm (via London), Aug. 21.—The All-American soccer football team won a game in the international contest with the Swedish players, 2 goals to 2. C. H. Spalding, left back of the Boston A. A., Philadelphia, and C. H. Ellis of the Boston Celtics each scored a goal. The third goal for the Americans was gained from a free kick.

The game was very fast, despite the fact that it was raining and the ground was slippery.

HERRICK OUT WITH FALL ROWING PLANS

At a conference between Head Coach Robert F. Herrick of the Harvard crew and his professional assistant, "Bill" Haines, plans for the Fall rowing season were formulated. A schedule has been drawn up by Coach Herrick and candidates for the crew are to be called out about a week after college reopens.

"BEATRICE FAIRFAX"

Novelized From the Great Film Play
By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

By Beatrice Fairfax

(Novelized from the Scenario of Basil Dickey and produced by Wharton, Inc., Studios for the International Film Service, Inc.)

(Copyright, 1916, International News Service.)

I WONDER what would have been Donald Jordan's fate if Howard Barnes, city editor of the Journal, had not noticed an inconspicuous item in an exchange? I wonder what would have been the end of Dorothy McRay's love story if James Barten, reporter, had failed to make good on the seemingly simple, but really very difficult, assignment which Barnes gave him one morning?

Before I tell you the strange story of "The Stone God," I want to explain a newspaper custom that is everywhere prevalent. Because different minds react to different stimuli the editor of one paper on reading another paper often sees little items which suggest a big story to him, while to the editor in whose paper he finds these items they seem good only for a line or two.

So each morning the city editor of every newspaper goes over dozens of exchanges looking for suggestions. He blue-pencils those which seem to him to offer promise of a story and hases assignments on them.

"If" sometimes seems to me to be the most important word in the English language. On an "if" the greatest terms of fate and chance are based. If the least variation of events in the story I am going to tell you had taken place, the Great Stone God of India would have seemed to his votaries all powerful to reach out into the Western World and to impose upon it the will of the East and the penalty that befalls "unbelievers."

A Love Story

To me the story I am going to tell you seems to be the love tale of Dorothy McRay. Jimmy calls it the "Vengeance of Buddha"—and the city editor headed his story "British Army Officer Meets Violent Death."

It is all a matter of accent. It depends on whether you think love or mystery or the passion for revenge the greatest element in the strange tale which began when this letter was brought to me at the close of my day's work.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My father has quarreled with the man I love. Would it be right to elope? Could you come and talk with me?

DOROTHY M'RAY.

220 Pelham road, New York City.

There was nothing particularly startling about that letter, and if it had come to me with the regular mail at the day I suppose I should never have noticed it. But it just happened that this letter came in at the psychological moment when it was bound to claim attention.

I was ready to close up my desk for the evening when Jimmy Barton came into the office looking jaded and discouraged. His usually dulcet typewriter gave a click or two and then stopped as if inspiration and facts as well were lacking.

Utter dejection appeared to have possession of the usually smiling Jimmy, so I decided on a little home missionary work and invited Mr. Barton to come home with me for dinner.

He insisted that he hadn't time for that, but that he'd like to take me out to dinner and tell me his troubles. Just as we were leaving the letter of which I have told you came. I picked it up carelessly enough, glanced at it and put it in my pocket.

The Letter in the Case

At that juncture chance and circumstance did a very wonderful stroke of work. If I had not put that letter in my pocket—if I had left it for the next morning's mail—the fate of a great many people must have been deadly different.

But I did thrust that letter carelessly into my pocket, and it dropped to the floor just when Jimmy and I were finishing dinner in a quiet corner of the English grill.

Jimmy picked it up and frowned at the square, heavy English writing. "Looks more like a love letter than a letter about love," he complained.

I read it idly and started to put it back in my pocket. It seemed an ordinary enough case—and I hate to interfere between parents and children.

"It is a love letter—and you're most impolite to accept attentions from one man and carry on a correspondence with another at the same time," said Jimmy in a tone

"My father has quarreled with the man I love," wrote Dorothy McRay to Beatrice Fairfax. "Would it be right to elope?"

I knew was meant to parody my attitude.

I was not in the mood for banter, so I shoved the letter across the table. Jimmie read it—eagerly he reread it—then he leaned across the table and spoke in a queer, breathless voice.

"Fate seems to be writing another story for us to work out in collaboration, Miss Beatrice . . . 220 Pelham road is the address for me as if we were on the track of something big. Have you fifteen minutes to spare? I'd like to tell you what looks to me like a part of this girl's story. Will you listen?"

"In your own language Mr. Barton, I'm the best little listener in this neighborhood." I laughed lightly.

All the Laugh Vanishes

But for five long strenuous hours after that I did not laugh again. The moments which followed

Jimmy's narration were packed to the brim with the greatest elements of humanity's story, love and hate; superstition and dogma; race loyalty and the lust for vengeance. And they led two men to death and another to the verge of a strange doom.

As for Dorothy McRay, her love story must have had an ending so hideous that it would have haunted her all her days, if the web of circumstances had not been woven in a deft pattern, starred with colors bright enough to show above a strange woof of Oriental design and treachery.

Here is Jimmy's story just as he told it to me—with as much of Jimmy's picturesque and vital slang as a mere woman can remember. "Barnes handed me a jolt this morning when he gave me what looked like a baby assignment for a fifteen dollar a week rah reporter. Here's the clipping he had blue-pencilled for me to follow.

Jimmy handed me a crumpled clipping, the head of which read:

"Indian Prince at Biltmore. Raja Ali Jaibel Arrives from Calcutta."

Appearances Deceptive

"Looks like a fine assignment, doesn't it?" grinned Jimmy. "Well, this is what it led to. I had a shave and a shine to doll up and get into the Biltmore class, and then I marched over to the hotel. The clerk was polite enough, but he informed me after he'd gotten his call-down over the phone that Ali Jaibel, Rajo of Calcutta, was not giving interviews.

"I stood at that desk and did some heavy thinking. If this chap didn't want to give interviews all the more reason J. Barton wanted to interview him. While I was thinking up a way Dame Fate played into my hands. Along comes a straight-haired, dark complexioned boy who had the map of East India all over his Broadway clothes.

"He got by when I couldn't, for after His Majesty Ali Jaibel got word over the phone of his last visitor Mister Clerk rings a bell and a page comes along to escort this East Indian chap up to Ali's apartment.

"Need I tell you that little Jimmy trails right along and peeks around a corner of the corridor when the page takes the honored guest to the door of apartment No. 32?

"That East Indian plays right into my hands like a bush leaguer. What did he do but forget to tip the boy? What does Frump do but hand the boy a dollar bill? What does the boy do but lead Jimmy, as per request, straight into apartment 34, which was considerate enough to be next door and empty."

The Manicure Lady

She Gives Her Ideas on Warm Weather

By WILLIAM F. KIRK

"It must be grand to be an iceman these days," said the Manicure Lady, fanning her flushed cheeks with a pink weekly. "The humility is terrible today."

"I'd like almost any job except the one I've got," said the Head Barber. "This is Hell. The hotter the weather, the faster the beards grow, and I don't see no relief in sight. It I hadn't shot the bankroll on the horses me and the Missus would go up into the country somewhere for a month."

"It's just as hot there," said the Manicure lady. "The only right way to go through the hot weather is to have a cool job. Here's a iceman, or a polar bear up in the Zoo, or even a collar-digger."

"The folks is all down to the seashore," said the Head Barber.

"It helps me some. They are cool, even if I ain't."

"That shows what a grand nature you got, George," said the Manicure Lady. "A lot of gents I know would be too selfish to ever think that way. You're just like my old gent. He was telling mother this morning that we could all go to the seashore for a few weeks, and I guess we're all going. If we can find a place where I can compute back and forth to my work.

"Of course, the hot trains makes computing hard, too, but it's better than staying in a stuffy flat. There was a gent in here today that used to be an actor, but he's retired now, and he lives near the ocean somewhere.

"He says it's grand out there along the beach, only the folks he meets there don't remember none of the shows he used to play in, so he cant find nothing to talk about. Of course, that makes it kind of hard, but just the same, I wish I could trade places with him."

"You wouldn't be no happier than you are now, and maybe not as happy," said the Head Barber. "You ain't never seen that ocean home of his, either; remember that. I know a lot of actors that go away to their Summer homes and stay as long as they can pay board. Then they come back. Don't get blue, kid. Just keep on doing the work you have to do, the best way you know how, and some day you'll run into a bunch of good luck."

"Good luck! Good luck! There ain't no such beast, George. I used to think so, but not no more. The people that we call lucky is just the plugucks that works a little harder and faster than the rest and has sense enough to save part of what they earn. They don't blow it all on dress or running horses."

"I ain't playing 'em no more since day before yesterday," said George. "I'm off 'em for good. Enough is enough, as Mister Rockefeller says. I lost a ten the last bet I made and I couldn't afford to lose it either. I'm off."

"Then things will begin to look more rosier for you," declared the Manicure Lady. "Lives of great men all remind us we should leave our backs behind us, as Mister Milton said to Bobbie Burns. The less you bet the better you can eat, George, and I seen a line once in a German restaurant that said: 'To eat well is to live well; to live well is to die well, and to live well and die well is the beginning and the end of life.'

"Nice" said the Head Barber. "I'm glad I started talking to you this morning. You've gave me as good advice as Andrew Carnegie would. Here comes the only living press agent that doesn't shave himself. I gotta get busy."

Mistaken Identity

The story is told of a well known lawyer, who has the distinction of being the leanest man in the town, that he was one day walking along a street when he noticed that a hound was following him. After he had gone some distance and the dog was still following him, he turned to a street gamin and asked:

"Boy, what do you suppose that dog is following me for?"

"Well, mister," said the boy, as he looked the lawyer over from head to foot, "I guess exactly, but my idea is that he thinks you for a bone."

How to Beautify a Summer Soiled Face

It's really a simple matter to renovate a face soiled by sun, wind or dirt. Ordinary mercolized wax, used like cold cream, will remove the worst sun tan, leaving into one of satiny whiteness and velvety softness. It literally peels off the cuticle in a few days, and this is done gradually, so there is no discomfort. Even freckles, liver spots and blotches disappear with the tan, the skin being left clear and beautiful. Of the treatment, the youngest, as well as middle-aged, may avail themselves. One ounce of mercolized wax is enough to remove any tanned, reddened, pimpled, freckled or blotchy skin. Ainty before retiring, washing it off mornings.

Many ladies who're easily with every wind that blows with heat, worry, etc. An excellent aid to recovery because it tightens the s n and strengthens re laxed muscles, a wash potion made as follows: Powdered cassille, 2½ oz. dissolved in witch hazel, ½ pt. This gives immediate results.—Advertisement.

Their Married Life

Helen and Warren Miss a Train and Have a Chance to See "the Other Half"

Copyright, 1916, International News Service.

"Now don't worry," said Bubbie reassuringly. "Chan can run you over to the train in five minutes."

The thing that had called forth the remark from Bubbie was the low roll of thunder and the accompanying drops of rain that began to patter on the roof of the porch. Helen and Warren had run down to the Bells for the evening and had found Avery Atwood there.

As usual, the sight of Atwood's lean, handsome face and sleek head made Helen think, with a little pang of sorrow, of Frances. Frances had gone out to Kansas and Helen was relieved not to have to worry about her through the Summer.

"All right," Helen responded, settling back in her comfortable porch chair, "if you are sure we won't miss it. We really must get that early train."

Bubbie rushed into the house to inspect the clock there, and hurried back almost immediately. "The clock in the living room is five minutes faster; perhaps you people ought to be getting on. I wish you wouldn't go, really, Helen; you might just as well wait for a later train. There's a reason in the world why you shouldn't go back."

"That's right," Warren echoed heartily. "We'll go into the station and you eat some lunch to the house."

THEY REACH THE STATION

"Well, I will, I guess," Carp returned. "If this rain turns out to be steady Bubbie may put me up over night. There's a yellow taxi door and I ought to put the top up if I stay."

Helen nodded gayly and ran into the station, followed by Warren.

"This is beastly weather," he grumbled. "I've got a notion to go without having it out. I swear you won't get me out into this again."

"Anything you want to find out what time it is, you'll find the clock naked after a few minutes of silence. "It's three minutes past nine now."

Helen followed Warren over to the ticket office and stood at the rail as he asked the agent about the train.

"Next train ten fifty-three," drawled the ticket agent.

Helen looked at Warren, aghast.

"What about the nine forty-five?" she inquired.

"No nine forty-five train," said the man, indifferently.

"What's the matter with the nine forty-five?" asked Warren. "It certainly has been running until lately."

"Been taken off the last three days," returned the man; "new schedule began Friday."

Helen and Warren turned away.

"It's funny Bubbie didn't know," complained Helen, cross at the idea of spending an hour in the stuffy little station.

"Well, that's not so strange," Warren returned. "Tom has been laid up and they haven't been up to the city in ages."

"Well, what shall we do?" asked Helen.

"Do? Why, wait, of course; there's nothing else to do."

"Let's go across to that candy store and get a soda," Helen suggested. "I never was so hot in my life."

Warren consented and they hurried across the street. The rain was still coming down, but less heavily.

ONLY A PASSING SHOWER

"It was only a passing shower after all," commented Warren as they went into the brightly lighted shop. It was a typical country store, with sticky fly paper on the counter and swinging fans that somehow made the atmosphere hotter than ever. There was a greasy odor of hastily dried tables and Helen involuntarily held her breath. The sodas came and they weren't as bad as Helen had thought they would be.

By the time they had finished them and had strolled back to the station it was ten-twenty and Helen felt much fresher. Some more people had gathered in the station and about the platform and it hardly seemed any time till the train came in.

At a junction they get off to change trains. As they waited on the platform Helen noticed some attractively dressed women marching up and down. They had smart linen suits on and expensive smart hats, their feet were handsomely shod in heavy white leather shoes and their entire appearance was so fresh and smart that Helen was fascinated and could not take her eyes off them. Beside them, she imagined that she looked hot and dowdy.

The train came thundering in, and Helen followed Warren into the train. The women she noticed had joined two men escorts and coming in behind Warren seated themselves opposite. Under the bright electric lights they looked quite different. One of the women looked younger than the other, and her soft face, badly made up, looked frightened. Encountering Helen's eyes, she shrank back in her seat and turned her face to the window. The other woman in the pink linen suit looked at Helen brazenly, her heavily lashed eyes dropping over black shadows that were traced beneath. The men with the two women paid very little attention to them. They, in fact, were of a different caliber; they looked like nice friendly middle-aged men who might have nice, redfined, attractive wives and a couple of children.

Helen turned inquiringly to Warren.

"Did you notice those women, dear?" she queried.

"Sure I did," Warren rejoined. "Any man would spot a woman like that as soon as he saw her. It's a shame, isn't it?"

Helen turned away and looked out of the car window. The dying country sped by unnoticed. She was wondering what men saw in women of that type.

Stop the Frightful Waste of Fruit

Don't blame somebody else for high food prices. The housewives of America let tons upon tons of fruit spoil every year. This fruit would supply millions of tables with wholesome, inexpensive foods. This thriftless habit costs the Nation a stupendous sum—you pay your share in higher prices for all food.

The Government and public-spirited newspapers are doing their utmost to interest housewives in home canning to save the fruit crop. Now, while fruit is cheap, put up jams, jellies, and preserves for winter. For best results use

NEW CHARGE IN WINTHROP GUN COMPANY

By BERT FORD.

Second Massachusetts Brigade Headquarters, El Paso, Tex., Aug. 21.—Captain Merton E. Jenkins of the Winthrop Machine Gun Company of the Fifth, who preferred charges against Lieutenant Stoehr of Winthrop last week, has been detailed to the division quartermaster's department. His counsel, Lieutenant Joseph W. McConnell of the Ninth, has filed formal charges against Stoehr in behalf of Jenkins and petitioned for a court-martial.

Captain Jenkins' sympathizers claim he was assigned to command the machine gun company by former Adjutant-General Charles H. Cole and that Lieutenant Stoehr and his backers are trying to pigeon-hole him in order to make Lieutenant Stoehr captain.

In the cavalry these four men have been discharged to support dependants: Privates W. H. Farrell, C. E. Basney and G. L. Reed, D Troop, and W. H. St. Clair, B Troop.

Private D. J. Waugh, D Troop, has been transferred to C Company of the Fifth Infantry. Lieutenant Francis J. Walsh of Wellesley has been transferred to the Thirty-fourth U. S. Infantry.

HOLD MILITARY FUNERAL.

The body of Private Thomas J. Fox of I Company, Fifth Massachusetts Infantry, the first in the force of 7,000 Bay State troops to die, is today on its way to Attleboro.

The body of Trooper Parker W. Miller of the Rhode Island Cavalry, first New England man to die on the border, was accompanied North by his chum last week, but the remains of Fox went unescorted and by express.

Private Fox was given a military funeral and the elements helped make it more solemn. The men of Company I turned out in a body and Colonel Willis W. Stover and Major Bouve marched at the head of the procession.

Chaplain Lyman Rollins, in cassock and stole, read the Episcopal service. There were no words of eulogy.

The service was brief and was held in a darkened chapel in the rear of an undertaker's rooms on Texas street. The day was hot and so many soldiers present made the chapel stifling.

An electrical storm swept the city during the service and Chaplain Rollins suggested that they wait for the rain to clear. But it was a two-hour storm and the little military cortege braved it. Colonel Stover and the men were wet to the skin before they reached the railroad station.

PLAYED HYMNS.

The Fifth's band did not have enough instruments to play a dirge. They played "Onward, Christian Soldiers" and other hymns. Lightning flashed and the frequent claps of thunder sounded like minute guns in salute.

The storm interrupted in the fourth inning the second game between the Ninth Regiment and Massachusetts Field Artillery nines. Colonel Logan's Braves won last week and the score stood 3 to 2 in their favor when a cloudburst caused a postponement of the game until next Sunday.

Holden pitched for the Ninth and Quirk caught, and Swan pitched for the Artillery and Baker was behind the bat. Loughlin and Gorman knocked two-baggers for the Ninth. Swan and Baker, the battery, made hits for the Artillery. Holden struck out six men in four innings, and Swan two. Pitzlibbons knocked two clean singles.

In the first, Needham for the artillery was given his base on balls. He reached second on a hit by Sands, who was thrown out by Holden. Needham landed third on a passed ball and scored on an error. Score, 1 to 0.

BIG CROWD TO SEE BENEFIT PAGEANT

So great has been the demand for tickets to the big pyrotechnic display and pageant to be held in Braves Field, Wednesday night, August 23, that it is expected there will be a limited number for sale at the gates on the night of the event.

This is the announcement of officers of the Unified Drug Company who are promoting the enterprise as a benefit for the Massachusetts Volunteer Aid Association. The receipts of this sale will be turned over to help care for the families of soldiers who have been called to duty on the border.

Tickets are on sale at Jordan Marsh's, Filene's, Herrick's ticket office, all the Liggett-Riker-Jaynes stores and all other Rexall drug stores.

One of the features of the big demonstration will be the "moonlight" drill of the First Corps Cadets.

Other events include an aeroplane demonstration in which De Lloyd Thompson, who earned the sobriquet of the "human comet" by his daredevil flying, will attempt something entirely new.

After the Cadets have gone through their manoeuvres, there will be solos by Mme. Grace Hamlin.

BARKING OF DOG SAVES TEN AT FIRE

Marlow, N. H., Aug. 21.—The barking of a dog saved the lives of ten occupants of the Marlow Inn, which, with seven other buildings, was destroyed by a fire of unknown origin. The dog aroused Harry Lewis, the proprietor, who awakened the other occupants. They escaped in their night clothing.

One of the five dwelling houses east of the inn, which were destroyed was owned by Burton Powell. Other buildings destroyed were dwellings owned by Mary Wheeler of Boston, L. D. Tinker, Charles Britton, and Mrs. Jennie Crosby of Milford, the plant of the Granite State Evaporator Company, owned by Perley E. Fox, and a building owned by the Ladies' Aid Society. The total loss is estimated by the police at from $30,000 to $50,000.

CLIMAX DUE TONIGHT IN ROW OVER WATERTOWN EPIDEMIC

Differences of opinion which have arisen over the actual number of cases of the diphtheria in the so-called Watertown "epidemic" may come to a head at tonight's meeting of the Watertown Board of Health.

The cost of fighting the disease has been estimated at $5,000. Some taxpayers look askance at an item of this size under almost any condition.

Dr. J. A. Boucher, chairman of the board, is said to be indignant over any criticism of the board's emergency measures. It is also reported that a member of the board will tender his resignation tonight.

The situation is complicated by criticism made by Dr. E. J. O'Donoghue, bacteriologist of the Boston Board of Health, to the effect that the Watertown officials ordered to the Massachusetts Homeopathic Hospital cases which were "negative."

Dr. Boucher and ——— R. H. Johnson of the Watertown board called Wednesday, and that Dr. Donoghue volunteered his services at Watertown, but was later asked to withdraw, also that negative cultures might be expected in cases which had received anti-toxin only forty-eight hours before.

NATION-WIDE HUNT FOR BANKER SILVER

Chicago, Aug. 21—A nation-wide dragnet was thrown out today for Max Silver, alleged wrecker of the "Silver Chain" of private banks in the foreign quarter on the West Side, after Silver, it is believed, is hurrying westward with more than $100,000 in deposits, most of which belongs to poor emigrants. Pitiful scenes were enacted around the banks. Hundreds lost their little savings in the collapse of the institutions.

FARM BUILDINGS BURNED, MAN SAVED

Manchester, N. H. Aug. 21—Fire early today totally destroyed the farm buildings of Charles W. Shirley, in the suburbs of this city, with a loss of $8,000. There was no insurance. Shirley himself was rescued from the burning house and is not expected to survive the shock.

STOCKS STRONG, STRIKE FEAR LESSENS

By W. H. ROSS,
Financial Editor.

Stocks were still strong by noon in New York, with U. S. Steel, Marine common and preferred, Republic Steel, United Fruit, Pacific Mail, Crucible, Reading and Westinghouse among those to show largest gains. The market quieted down at midday. But sentiment remained unchanged. Bulls insist that when it becomes known that railroads will not be tied up by a strike there will be a pronounced upward movement. Big buying by the public is predicted by these optimists. Bears are sharpened and more or less alarmed at the steadiness of the market during such a grave period.

MANY STOCKS WERE HIGHER.

Gains at 12 o'clock included Beet Sugar 1¾, American Can 1⅜, American Smelting ¾, U. S. Steel 2⅜ at 93⅝, Car & Foundry 1⅜, American Locomotive 1⅛, Baldwin 1⅜, Crucible 2, Colorado Fuel 1¼, Republic Steel 2⅜, Pacific Mail 3, United Fruit 2, Westinghouse 1¼, Distillers ¾, Industrial Alcohol 1⅛, Mexican Petroleum 1⅝, Maxwell ½, Studebaker extra dividend 1, Marine common 2¾, at 30¼ after selling as high as 29¾, Marine preferred 3⅜ at 103¾, after selling as high as 104, Central ⅝, Inspiration ¾, Canadian Pacific ½, Southern Pacific ¾, Chesapeake & Ohio ¾, Reading 1, N. Y. Central ⅝, Baltimore & Ohio ⅝ and Union Pacific ⅝. The advance of rails was considered significant of peace between managements and employes.

GULF COMMON LED HERE.

At the opening in Boston trading in Atlantic, Gulf & West Indies common practically constituted the market. There was little business in coppers or in railroads. United Fruit, however, soon became strong and active. The list in general followed New York on the advance. Local gains were mostly fractional, but became general during the morning. By noon the list drove ahead on a higher level.

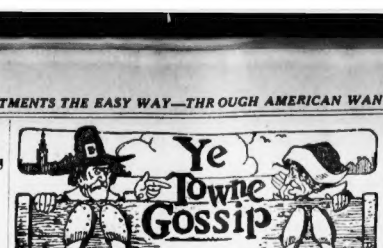
Gains at 12 o'clock included Old Dominion ⅜, Copper Range ⅛, Granby ⅜, North Butte ¼, Mohawk ½, Gulf common 1, United Fruit 2⅜, American Zinc ¼, Butte & Superior ⅜ and United Shoe ⅛. U. S. Smelting was off ¼.

BOSTON CURB BEGAN QUIET.

On the Boston Curb business was rather quiet at the start, but became normal before long. National Zinc was the leader in activity and it weakened. At the end of the first hour gains included American Oil 2 cents, Silver Pick 4 cents and Rilla 1 cent. Losses included Nation Metals 1, M. M. 1, Zinc 5 cents, Boston & Montana 1 cent, Davis-Daly 1-16, and Shamrock 1. Unchanged issues included Fortuna, Champion, Gold Coin, Ohio Copper and Porcupine Premier.

PRICES SOON MOVED UPWARD.

When New York opened the market was firm but lacked breadth. U. S. Steel, the Marine issues and Reading were the leaders. Each was strong and active. Trading in them formed the bulk of business. At the start hesitancy prevailed. It was because of the uncertainty of the railway labor situation. News from Washington inspired confidence. It is the consensus of opinion that a settlement will be reached soon. Otherwise, it was remarked, the market would now be discounting the worst. Most of the early buying today came from commission houses, but received accumulation by public buying interests was reported. U. S. Steel soon sold at its high for the year and later touched 94 for a new high. It sold in fact at its top price since 1909. It was said it would soon sell higher than it ever has. That will be for better. Marine issues made new high records. The market, in fact, grew stronger all the morning. After the first few minutes trading was of good volume. There were transactions for large blocks of the leaders. Trading grew quiet and so were railroads as a class. War industrials, including steel and tobacco, were in demand at rising prices.



THE OTHER day.
I WROTE a piece.
ABOUT A smile.
AND HOW it grows.
AND SPREADS itself.
LIKE RIPPLES.
RUNNING EVERYWHERE.
UPON A sea.
WHERE QUIET was.
UNTIL A pebble.
BROKE THE spell.
OF QUIETUDE.
AND SATURDAY.
WHEN NIGHT had come.
I WANDERED forth.
IN IDLE chance.
THAT SOMEWHERE.
IN THE moving throng.
THAT I had joined.
THAT I might find.
AN OLD acquaintance.
AND A smile.
AND WANDERING.
I FOUND a man.
A LITTLE man.
WITH CRIPPLED back.
UPON A chair.
CLOSE TO the curb.
AND THERE it was.
HE GATHERED alms.
AND PLAYED.
AN OLD accordion.
AND SMILED.
AND THAT he smiled.
AND FOUND a dime.
AND DROPPED it.
IN THE little cup.
AND WHERE he sat.
WAS NEAR a place.
WHERE TAXIS stood.
AND ONE drove up.
AND FROM his seat.
THE DRIVER came.
AND DROPPED a coin.
INTO THE cup.
AND OTHERS came.
AND AS they came.
THEY DRIVER.
WHO WAS first to come.
PICKED UP the cup.
AND PASSED it round.
AND GOT a coin.
FROM EVERYONE.
AND ALL the time.
OUR LITTLE man.
PLAYED ON.
AND SMILED.
NO MATTER.
HE HAD crippled back.
AND SIGHTLESS eyes.
AND WAITER came.
FROM OUT a door.
CLOSE BY.
AND DROPPED a coin.
AND HURRIED back.
AND THEN.
I ASKED the taxi man.
WHY THEY all gave.
AND HE just said.
"HE ALWAYS smiles."
I THANK you.

LADY FOUND NEW LIFE IN BOTTLE

Claims Plant Juice Restored Her Health After All Others Failed.

MRS. M. P. BROWN.

"There are two sets of organs in the human body," said Prof. Plant, of Manchester, Man. "The alimentary tract, including the liver, stomach and bowels, and the intestines; the urinary tract, the kidneys and bladder. The first organs regulate the health of the entire body. Practically all diseases are due directly or indirectly to their being disordered, for nothing but perfectly healthy most certainly preserves perfect health. Many diseases attack these organs which promptly yield to the power of the new herbal preparation, Plant Juice. It is a combination of the most powerful most efficient of nature's remedies found in roots, herbs, barks, leaves and berries. Plant Juice is invaluable for kidney, liver, stomach and bowel ailments." Mrs. M. P. Brown, who resides at 1 Cumberland Street, East Lynn, and is a well-known and popular lady, has related her experience.

"For years I have suffered with catarrh of the stomach and bowels. Dyspepsia, indigestion and severe headaches and dizziness. My stomach was in such a state I could not eat a meal of victuals without suffering afterwards. My nerves were all awollen with rheumatism, and I have doctored with different doctors and tried almost every remedy I ever heard of, but got no benefit from any of them until I commenced to take Plant Juice. I have taken three bottles and I am feeling fine; have no more rheumatism, my stomach is right in every bottle of it. It has done me a lot of good and I can say that I am greatly relieved, and will gladly recommend Plant Juice to everyone."

The Plant Juice Man is at Jordan's store, where he is daily meeting the local people and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy.—Advertisement.

How an Actor Died of a Broken Heart

Proving, among other things, that actors have hearts, that they love as deeply and devotedly as other people. In next Sunday's AMERICAN.

WILSON LEADER MAKES ATTACK ON HUGHES

By VANCE C. McCORMICK,
Chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

New York, Aug. 21.—At last the truth is out. Candidate Hughes was nominated by the Republicans, not because he was a hundred per cent. judge, but because for six years he had been a hundred per cent. aphinx. The first result of Mr. Hughes' speech-making tour from New York to the Pacific Coast has been the complete disillusionment of the people concerning the man and his candidacy.

With a reputation as a man of high character, an able jurist and lawyer, possessing the respect of Democrats as well as the respect and confidence of Republicans, much was expected of him. He has disappointed all expectations is to state the fact mildly.

TELLS OF CAMPAIGN.

In a large measure he has forfeited the esteem of his opponents and the confidence of the better element among his supporters. Instead of an intellectual discussion of issues and political in a dignified and judicially-minded candidate the people have been inflicted with a series of hair-raising, reckless misstatements and the cheap personalities and bitter partisanship that characterize ward politics of a quarter of a century ago.

Mr. Hughes' campaign has been conducted on the lowest level yet reached in a presidential campaign. As associate justice of the Supreme Court of the United States slinging campaign mud is not a spectacle to inspire confidence or to command public confidence.

The issues of this campaign are collected in the constructive and progressive achievements of Woodrow Wilson.

Mr. Hughes has crossed the continent without having offered or suggested a single constructive policy. He has not even been constructive, but simply obstructive. Throughout the great lawyer has employed his legal ability in quibbling and the other party methods usually practiced in police courts.

HITS AT WALL STREET.

With an opportunity to discuss ideals and the material interests of America, he has chosen to ally himself with the worst element in his own party, and has appealed to the most selfish and most partisan intimates among his followers.

Without discussing a single vital issue of the campaign, he has held out to Wall Street the hope of restoring the financial oligarchy of the dethroned because of finance, whose chief aim is to reveal the Federal Reserve Bank as a huge bank of credits free in the United States, and which made the nation panic proof, and he wants to abolish it, therefore a central bank by which Wall Street can control the private and public finances of the nation, but he has not dared to say so.

To the American looters of Mexico he intimates the hope of intervention by which every corrupt and fraudulent concession will be legalized by a war of occupation and conquest.

The only construction to be placed upon his ambiguous attitude toward the Mexican policy is that he would have recognized the murderer Huerta and thus would have set a premium upon revolution and assassination in Latin America.

ASSAILS HUGHES.

Not once has he referred to or indorsed the idealistic and constructive program of the Progressive party, but apparently assumes that his endorsement by Roosevelt and Perkins will deliver those independent and thoughtful citizens to him in a body.

Altogether, he is the most conspicuous illustration in recent years of a good man gone wrong of a fair-minded jurist adopting the most unfair and unjudicial methods, of a great lawyer pettifogging and befouling the name of a great jurist, following the well known custom of lawyers with a bad case by attempting to confuse and befog the issues in the minds of the other side.

Many people who knew the Charles E. Hughes who was Governor of New York, are unable to account for the transformation in the man Charles E. Hughes, the presidential candidate of 1916.

The overthrow and destruction of Charles E. Hughes cannot be charged to the Democratic party. His downfall is not due to any attack that has been made on him. He is the author of his own unfortunate and the architect of his own ruin.

London Nation Says We Can End War

THAT is an extremely interesting article which we reprint on this page today from the London Nation.

The most interesting paragraph is that in which this influential English newspaper frankly admits that all the belligerents desire an offer of mediation from President Wilson.

The Hearst papers have contended for months that an offer of mediation made by this Government, in conjunction with other neutral Governments, would be hailed with secret pleasure by the Central Empires and by all the Allies, with the possible exception of Russia and the certain exception of Japan.

The anxious desire of Japan, of course, is that the white nations should go on slaughtering each other's people and wasting each other's wealth and strength.

So long as they do that, so long do they play Japan's sinister game.

And so long as we do nothing at all to mediate, and do so very much to feed the fires of Europe's war, so long do WE play Japan's sinister game.

And one of the trump cards which Japan most certainly means to play in her sinister game, whenever she feels that she is strong enough, is war upon the United States.

Now, we do not want war with Japan, if war can be averted without surrender or dishonor. And if the London Nation is right in its belief, a war between the United States and any other Power can be averted, perhaps for years, perhaps forever, if Mr. Wilson will offer mediation to Europe, and the United States will subsequently lead in the formation of a World League to Enforce Peace.

If the President does not desire European peace enough to risk an offer of mediation he certainly is out of line with the sentiment of the American people.

The American people desire nothing so much in the world as an end of this awful and hideous slaughter of Europe's peoples.

There is nothing that can be risked in honor and done with decency that any true American would not risk and do to end this war that has made half the world a hell of woe.

Curiosity Leads to Knowledge

NEVER discourage your children who ask questions. A child in good health will ask as many as five hundred questions in an hour. The right kind of a father or mother will answer as many of the questions as possible, kindly, never discourage the questioner, remembering that CURIOSITY IS THE BASIS OF ALL INFORMATION.

The path of Curiosity leads to the bright Sun of Knowledge.

The apple fell and Newton's CURIOSITY led him to formulate the law of gravitation.

Columbus was curious to know if there was not a shorter route to India. Following his curiosity he discovered America.

The curiosity of primitive man led him across rivers, lakes and seas, and spread the human race all over this planet.

The curiosity of the little child leads him to crawl, to stand up that he may see farther, and finally to walk that he may GET the curious thing that he sees.

Without curiosity the child would not walk. Curiosity is the basis of scientific knowledge. Much of our knowledge of chemistry is based on the apparently idle curiosity of men seeking the philosopher's stone, experimenting with the transmutation of metals.

When your little boy or girl asks you one question, five questions, a hundred questions, remember that every question is the expression of THE ONLY POWER IN THAT CHILD'S mind. If you discourage curiosity, you discourage the thirst for knowledge. If you kill curiosity, you destroy the mind.

Once-Overs

That other fellow is probably not such a bad individual when you get to know him. In fact, Jack Smith, whom you think of as "far from what he should be," may have more real good in his make-up than you have.

It is possible that he does more genuine charitable work than you do, and that he does not harbor half so much envy of those above him as you have in your heart.

Now, although this man may have a rough exterior, is he not a far better one than the more polished individual who is cunning, and therefore makes the necessary effort to keep dark his bad points and bring to the forefront the characteristics which are praised by society?

It is really what is inside the man which counts. Browning says that "man has two sides; one side with which to meet the world and the other side he shows a woman when he loves her"; in other words, it is the heart of man which counts for the real man.

Before you censure a fellow being, it would be well for you to stop and consider just what sort of man you are yourself, at heart, and then, using that as a basis, suspend judgment, and be glad he has not found you out.

This Is the Time to Enforce Peace

London, Aug. 15.

THE London Nation makes the following comment on an address President Wilson delivered before the League to Enforce Peace, in Washington, May 27:

"Mr. Wilson's speech on the future peace of the world is an utterance of utmost consequence and most direct bearing on the issue of the war.

"The formation of a league to enforce peace is a capital fact in American politics. The league is a great organization to which both parties and some of their ablest leaders have adhered. The main object is simple. One setting up something like an international parliament or court of justice armed with power not, indeed, for the settlement, but for the hearing of international disputes.

"This aim dissociates it from actual interference with war, for its scheme can only come into operation after peace is signed. The league proposes to guarantee that peace, not to bring it about by arms or by direct mediation. It is clear that to such a body the President could not address an examination of the causes of war, still less a polemic upon it.

"He could hardly even commend to his hearers a direct mediatory act. That may come, though not, we imagine, without formal or informal knowledge. The belligerents desire it. If we think and hope that Mr. Wilson may proffer such action and that it may succeed, we cannot at the same time call on him to pronounce formally in our favor in a diplomatic quarrel with Germany, but if his immediate proposal of an American guarantee of peace fructifies, the United States will clearly come in as the head and spokesman of neutral nations.

"Had Germany refused American terms on submarines, they would by this time have appeared as belligerents. As she granted them in substance, or appears to have granted them, the President has, in our view, offered us service only less vital than that of his country's appearance in shining armor on the field of battle.

"And this for a reason. Mr. Wilson does not in form propose that America herself negotiate a treaty of peace, but he suggests she should stand behind it as a guarantor of 'the principle of public right.' This phrase is Gladstone's.

"Here is the origin of a school for 'crushing Germany.' It feels she never will be quiet until she is down, and, therefore, peace must be as pitiless as war must be prolonged. But we get an entirely new way to our objective when we see a gigantic power like the States, with South America and a body of European neutrals in its train, coming in and offering to back the bill.

"When belligerents have settled terms America will, she thinks, be prepared to guarantee that it will join with a universal association of nations to maintain the security of the highways of the seas for common use, and to prevent wars against treaty covenants and entered on without a statement of their cause.

"Is not that a fair offer, does it not in effect yield the promise and potency of a just end of the war—the end we wish to profess and desire to promote? If America backs her President, she will associate herself with an international settlement of the Europe that will arise after the war. We may, therefore, assume that that settlement will be a just one, and will include, for example, the restoration of Belgium and other small nations overrun by the German armies, for America could not propose to carry out an international arrangement she considered unjust. The essence of the American proposal is a world intervention against just such mixed land-on-sea war—forced on without warning or submission of a case—as we think Germany initiated.

"If Europe had known what was before, says Mr. Wilson, she would be glad to substitute conference for force.

"This will give us what we want without bloodshed and exacerbation. It seems to us we can finally reject her tender only if we regard it as a proposal of rhetoric and think the American does not stand behind his President, or if we are convinced that our victory over Germany is so certain and will be so sweeping as to enable us to inaugurate a definite reign of European peace on her substantial ruin and lasting subordination."

Peculiar Facts About Metals, Stones and Oils

Treasures of the Earth

Many Fascinating Problems Connected with the Origin and Distribution of Gold, Silver, Iron and Copper, as Well as the Mysterious Petroleum, Garrett P. Serviss Shows

By Garrett P. Serviss

"How do you account for the presence of the minerals, such as gold, silver, iron and copper; also precious stones and mineral oils, petroleum especially? H. J. E.

THE existence of these things is no more and no less mysterious than that of common dirt, or of air or water. They are all constituents of the earth as we find it. But their distribution, their mode of origin, and their greater or less abundance present many interesting questions, some of which, at least, can be answered.

Take the four metals that you mention—gold, silver, copper, iron. Their abundance is in inverse ratio to the value that we set upon them, or, turning the statement the the other way around, their value (to us) is in inverse ratio to their abundance. If gold were as plentiful as dirt, and iron as rare as gold, then our curiosity would be concentrated upon the iron, while the gold would be taken as a matter of course.

However, iron does not possess the peculiar qualities which make gold precious, and gold, on the other hand, lacks the properties that make iron useful, so that there remains much food for thought in the fact that the rare metals are precisely those whose properties render them suitable only for narrowly limited use, as in coinage and jewelry, while the abundant metals are those which, like copper and iron, possess qualities of widespread importance in the everyday work of mankind.

Of course there is a human element which enters into all of these judgments of value and of usefulness, but that only shows the more clearly how close is the adjustment of our life requirements to the properties and the relative abundance of the inanimate objects around us.

The same thing is seen in the case of precious stones. Those having the greatest value are not merely the most rare, or the most difficult to obtain, but they possess peculiar properties which greatly enhance the effect of their rarity in giving them special value. Nature might have made common quartz as hard and as brilliant as diamond, but that was not the way things were ordered. Rare qualities were bestowed upon rare things, and these qualities are often such as would have made the world less useful to man if they had been imparted to the more abundant minerals.

The distribution of the precious things of the earth is a profitable subject of reflection. Gold is found in certain kinds of rocks, but by no means in all rocks of those kinds.

It exists in many places in such small quantities, or so widely diffused in minute particles, that either it would cost too much to recover it, or it could not be recovered at all. Yet in certain localities it has been collected through various natural agencies and deposited in veins, reefs and nuggets, so rich and abundant that its presence gives those localities a prestige which all the world willingly acknowledges. But the geologist cannot tell beforehand whether a newly discovered spot will or will not prove to be a land of gold.

The case of such a substance as petroleum is peculiar. It is found in the rocks of the earth's crust, but it was probably not formed from the rocks. Although so great a chemist as Mendeleeff believed that petroleum was formed by the action of heated water upon calcium carbide, yet the prevailing opinion at present is that it is derived from decomposition of animal or of vegetable matter, or of both. The organisms, whether plant or animal, that have been transformed into oil, must have been inhabitants of the ocean in early geologic times. Some geologists contend that the material was supplied entirely by marine animal life, and that vegetation has played no part in the phenomenon.

Oil Formed from Bodies of Huge Vanished Sea's Many Inhabitants

If this be true, what a picture arises in the mind when we remember the location of many of the great oil wells (in Pennsylvania for instance) and then recall the facts that a sea abounding with life once rolled where the mountains now rise and the rivers flow, and that millions of gallons of oil, formed from the bodies of the inhabitants of that vanished sea, and stored for millions of years in the great reservoirs of the earth, are now piped away to cities that have grown up on the shore of the present sea, and are there used to create artificial daylight for creatures whose earliest types were not to come into existence until vast eons of time after the oilmakers, and the sea they swam in, had disappeared.

And what legions of generations must have undergone that transformation in order to furnish oil enough to make an American billionaire.

Scars

By Jane McLean

IT'S not the things that we say, dear heart,
Though the hurt may be sharp and deep;
It's not the gray of the day, dear heart,
If it's given to us to weep;
It's not the flay of a careless word
When the heart itself is kind;
It's the hurt too deep to be voiced or heard
That leaves its message behind.

It's not the anger that dies away
With the first repentant tear;
It's the hurt of a wound that's come to stay
For many a weary year.
It's the sudden look of a beaten soul.
Surprised in a level eye,
The lapse of a second's self-control
From a heart too full to cry.
